BONUS FACTION SHOWDOWN DUE AT CAMP TODAY

Bulk of Marchers Are Now at Fort Hunt for Convention.

Seething with undercover politics and openly split into two wings, the 1933 bonus army today is finally removed from Washington, though in sight of the Capitol dome from the Fort Hunt encampment, and ready to begin mass consideration of their collective pleas for veterans relief.

Mike Thomas' B. E. F. group last night was still alien in principle, though seeming friendly individually, to the larger group of veterans gathered by the Veterans National Liaison Committee.

The "showdown" is expected sometime this morning with the distant possibility of a march back to Washington of the "die-hard" group led by Thomas if differences as to credentials and other things are not settled.

Adjournment Date Doubtful.

As the convention business seems to be near a beginning after three days at the camp, the outlook for adjournment by Thursday, as promised the administration, begins to look very doubtful.

What will happen if the men do not keep their agreement to leave was a matter of conjecture, with all sorts of solutions being advanced, but nothing official forthcoming.

The bonus legions are hemmed in by a bristling array of several score Virginia troopers, equipped with gas bombs, riot guns and stout sticks. When the convention is over their only route back will be through Washington via the Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard.

Visitors Throng Camp.

All through yesterday the air at the Federal reservation was full of "chin music," amplified radio music and the steady purr of 2,000 automobiles filing through the army camp to look at the much-publicized bonus seekers.

In Washington the two score "irreconcilables" provided a spark of excitement when ten of their number began a sudden march on the White House late yesterday afternoon.

Led by Joseph Salzman, militant Brooklynite, the ten sped in two cars to the east side of Lafayette Park. Debarking, they formed in line and with a pair of flags flying, headed toward the Executive Mansion.

White House March Fails.

Just as they appeared at the northwest gate of the White House grounds, J. O. Patton and Guy Rhone, of the crime prevention police bureau, headed them off and held them for questioning as to parading without a permit.

Unaware that President Roosevelt was aboard his government yacht down the Potomac, the Salzman unit clamored for audience with the Chief Executive.

At this point, Supt. Ernest W.

Wyoming to Vote On Repeal Today

Cheyenne, Wyo., May 14 (U.P.).—Wyoming electors will vote on repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution tomorrow.

Wyoming will be the fourth State to name delegates to a State repeal convention, following Michigan, Wisconsin, and Rhode Island, which States have acted favorably on repeal.

Predictions as to the outcome of tomorrow's voting conflicted. Both drys and wets claimed strength and drys were active in organizing their forces. Wyoming voted in favor of repeal in a referendum last fall.

Okero Had Weighty Brain

Thinking Apparatus of Gorilla Who Died at Zoo Here Found to Be Well Wrinkled and of High Development for Animal.

(Associated Press.)

Discovery in a gorilla of a brain of higher type than ever before found in an animal—nearer the human brain weight than any similar ape's brain on record—was announced yesterday by the Smithsonian Institution.

It sheds new light on the evolution of the animal brain toward the human level, though giving no direct evidence of relationship of men and monkeys. The brain belonged to Okero, 3-year-old baby gorilla, that died last year at the National Zoo here. It was studied by Dr. C. J. Connolly, of Catholic University of America.

Dr. Connolly found besides being unusually heavy for a baby gorilla's brain, that Okero's thinking apparatus was especially rich in convolutions or "wrinkles" in the upper part of the brain which is the center that in humans controls speech, thought and bodily movements.

Okero's brain weighed 466.6 grams, a little over a pound. The lightest normal human brain weighs about 1,100 grams, which had been considered more than twice as heavy as the heaviest ape brain. If Okero had lived and his brain had grown as fast as a human one, it might have reached a weight of more than 600 grams, Dr. Connolly explained.

Okero was a mountain gorilla, while all others so far studied have been coast gorillas. Behavior of the former indicates they are somewhat more intelligent. Though Okero was a baby, his brain weighed much more

FLIER AND MAIL SAFE AS PLANE CRACKS UP

Bill Griffith Takes to His Parachute After Motor Goes Dead in Pennsylvania.

Another chapter in the mighty drama of Uncle Sam's airmail was written across the treacherous mountains near Bedford, Pa., early yesterday, when Bill Griffith, crack pilot of the Pennsylvania Air Lines, and veteran flier of the United States mail, bailed out into black, yawning space when the motor of his plane failed.

Griffith left Washington Airport shortly before midnight Saturday, and headed his ship toward Pittsburgh. All went well until he reached a hilly, wooded section several miles from his destination.

Suddenly the roaring motor of his plane went dead. The moments that followed were crammed with action. Griffith made a futile attempt to restart his engine. Seeing his efforts were wasted, the airman cut off the ignition switch to precent fire, glanced hastily at his precious cargo, and leaped into the night with his parachute.

Floating gently to earth, Griffith heard his plane crash to the ground some distance away. He landed uninjured. The next problem was to locate a telephone.

For more than three miles he tramped through the underbrush and finally arrived at an isolated farm house. A farmer and his family took Griffith into their home, and from there a request for aid was sent to Pittsburgh.

Griffith, returning to his wrecked plane, found the mail intact. His promptness in cutting off the switch had prevented fire.

Griffith will continue his regular airmail run tonight.

Chinese Protest Sale of Railway

Nanking, China, May 14 (A.P.).—An emphatic protest against the sale of the Chinese Eastern Railway by the Soviet government is contained in a note dispatched by the Nationalist government to Moscow today.

The Chinese government declares in the note that the Soviet authorities' contemplated action shows a disregard of treaty obligations as well as an inclination to conclude "an unlawful transaction with an unlawful regime."

The suggested transfer of Soviet interests, the note declares, would be tantamount to recognition of Manchukuo, and to aiding the cause of Japan. The Nanking government hopes, the note says, that the Soviet government will reconsider its decision in the case.

150 Boats Are Burned In Hudson River Blaze

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—Flames which defied the combined efforts of fire fighters on land and on water to halt their spread swept through a boathouse on the Hudson River today, destroyed 150 small craft, and left property valued at $250,000 in ashes.

Richard Cox, owner of the three story-and-a-half frame buildings and many of the motorboats, rowboats and canoes they housed, was aroused from sleep by the crackling of timbers just in time to escape with his wife.

Wilson Will Consult Davis About Deadlock

Geneva, May 14 (A.P.).—Hugh L. Wilson, American delegate to the world disarmament conference, left Geneva for Paris today to consult Norman H. Davis, the American Ambassador at Large, upon the existing deadlock in the conference.

Meetings of the conference have been suspended while awaiting developments at Berlin in connection with the speech Wednesday of Chancellor Hitler before the Reichstag.

FORCE IS MOBILIZED FOR VIRGINIA STRIKE

Militia and Police Are Held Ready for Action at Galax Factories.

Galax, Va., May 14 (A.P.).—Galax was quiet tonight following the strike of the employes of the Vaughan-Bassett and Webb Furniture Companies Saturday. Extra officers are on duty and no further trouble is anticipated.

T. G. Vaughan, president of Vaughan Furniture Factory, whose employes did not strike, said that his plant expects to work Monday and that he intends to see that his men are protected as long as they care to work.

B. C. Vaughan and J. V. Webb, president of the other plants, said they intend to open their plants Monday for all workers who care to return.

Alexandria, Va., May 14 (A.P.).—T. McCall Frazier, director of the State division of motor vehicles, said tonight that eleven State policemen were ordered today from Alexandria and Virginia Beach to Roanoke substation to stand by in connection with a strike of furniture factory workers near Martinsville.

The supplemental force sent to Roanoke was commanded by Sergt. J. B. Nunn, whom Frazier directed to keep in contact with Sergt. Fred Adams, who is on the scene of the strike.

Frazier explained that the State police would not be ordered on the strike scene unless they were requested by the sheriff of the county, who would have to show that the police were necessary in order to obviate calling out the National Guard.

Roanoke, Va., May 14 (A.P.).—A detachment of State police awaited orders in Roanoke tonight that would send them to Galax, where employes of two furniture factories are on strike.

The officers stated that T. McCall Frazier, director of the State division of motor vehicles, was expected to reach here late tonight.

At the same time, officers of Company F, local National Guard, were

Guards Halt Fresh Reformatory Riot

Concord, Mass., May 14 (U.P.).—The second riot within 24 hours flared at Concord Reformatory today and was subdued in less than an hour as 70 guards, using clubs and tear gas, battled the 1,000 prisoners.

More than a score of the prisoners were ordered segregated as ring-leaders in the disturbance, which began in the dining hall. Cups and chairs were hurled, plates smashed against the walls and tables used to barricade the doors.

Guards were beaten up and several convicts had broken heads. Two physicians attended the injured. A similar riot broke out Saturday during the supper hour and was as suddenly ended.

SENATE ORDERS FOR MILK PROBE ARE PREDICTED

King Believes Chamber Will Sanction Quiz Tomorrow.

The investigation of milk prices in the District is expected to be given Senate sanction tomorrow when Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee, is scheduled to call his inquiry-seeking resolution for Senate consideration.

Passage of the resolution was predicted last night by Senator King, its author, who said: "The general feeling is the milk situation in Washington needs investigation and we expect to go through with it."

The Utah Senator, who is noted for his persistency in pursuing his objectives, is determined that the cost of dairy products in the local market be thoroughly sifted to determine whether a combination is pegging prices.

Price Gouging Indicated.

The resolution of Senator King, introduced when The Post began a disclosure of apparent price gouging in dairy products here, would authorize the District Committee to sift every particle of evidence which would tend to throw light on the Washington milk market.

Specifically, the aim of Senator King is to learn whether a combination is controlling the market, and, if so, whether it is charging unfair prices to the consumers. To this end he asks that the Senate District Committee be empowered to compel the attendance of witnesses and to sit at all times.

The findings of the committee will be reported to the Senate, together with recommendations for remedial legislation.

House Action Planned.

The investigation by The Post has disclosed that at least 80 per cent of the milk distribution is under the dominion of the National Dairy Prod-

4 Safe Crackers Foiled by "Eye"

Philadelphia, May 14 (A.P.).—An invisible "electric eye" foiled four men as they prepared early today to blast a big safe in a department store in suburban Millbourne.

Concealing themselves in the store before it was closed for the night, the men bound and gagged a night watchman and gathered up tools from counters to help in opening the safe.

But as they approached it the "electric eye" sounded an alarm. They left a quantity of nitrogycerin at the safe in their sudden flight.

The flier said his purpose was principally to study the physiological effects of upside-down flying. Physicians found his vital organs functioned well, with the exception of a slight increase in heartbeats.

MILK STRIKERS RIOT IN FACE OF TEAR GAS

400 Battle Truckmen in Wisconsin and Dump Cargoes on Ground.

Elkhorn, Wis., May 14 (A.P.).—Enraged farmers, waging their milk strike, today battled through dense clouds of tear gas south of Mukwonago to dump six truck loads of milk destined for the Chicago market.

Fists and clubs flew as strikers put nonstrikers to flight, and from a few rods distant deputy sheriffs tossed the gas bombs which made 400 farmers and truck drivers gasp for air and cover their eyes.

Thirty-five deputy sheriffs were kept from the thick of the fight by a county line. The battle took place a few yards inside of Walworth County. The officers were deputies of Waukesha County. They could not charge across the line with their riot sticks and pistols, but they did hurl many bombs. Clouds of gas, borne by a gentle south wind, wafted back into the faces of the deputies. Some managed to get on their gas masks, but others were as much affected as the farmers who were the targets.

The truck drivers and a few private guards armed with clubs were no match for the aroused farmers. Clubs were wrested from the guards. Some farmers rushed into the fray with milk cancovers in their hands. While some battled the truck drivers others tossed milk cans to the pavement and milk settled several inches deep in a depression in the pasture of Mac Nees.

No Walworth County deputies were on the scene, but a call to the county seat at Elkhorn brought them out in force. An hour after the battle 57 officers were patrolling the highways, but there were no more disorders. Several milk trucks passed through later under police escort.

Among those injured was Otto Marquette, president of the East Troy

Labor Union Rebel Target of Snipers

Chicago, May 14 (A.P.).—Snipers today poured a volley of rifle slugs into the home of George Roy Baker, who recently led a short-lived rebellion against officials in control of Chicago Coal Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers Union. No one was struck by the bullets, which tore through the walls of several rooms.

It the house at the time were Baker, his wife, their three children, George McGregor, a union trustee, and Miss Alberta Grant, a guest.

Baker, who claims to be the duly elected president of the local, fired two charges from a shotgun at the attackers, who posted themselves in a vacant lot near the house.

The bureau said flood warnings were issued "for the Ohio River and its tributaries below Parkersburg, W. Va.; the Illinois River, the Lower Missouri River, the Arkansas River and the Mississippi River from the mouth of the Missouri to the mouth of the Arkansas."

"No definite stage forecast can be made for the Mississippi,' 'the warning added, "until the tributary floods have developed to a greater extent."

Death and property damage marked the course of flood waters through an area extending from West Virginia to Oklahoma today.

Nine persons drowned over the week-end in the Ohio River Valley and one traffic fatality, the death of Timothy A. Burke, 23, in Indianapolis, was attributed to a blinding rainstorm.

Levees of the Upper Mississippi Valley Basin, weakened by previous spring floods, were pounded dangerously as torrential rains swelled streams. Crops suffered.

SMITH DEFINITE ON REFUSAL OF MAYORALTY BID

Attempt to Draft Former Governor as New York City Head Fails.

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith, four times Governor of New York and once a Presidential candidate, tonight definitely declared his refusal to run for Mayor of New York in the November election.

In a crisply worded statement he ended all doubt about his position by saying he would not under any circumstances accept "any nomination for that office or any other office" in next fall's municipal ballot contest.

"There is no compulsion or persuasion that can affect my decision; that is final." he stated.

Will Retain Interest.

The pronouncement came at a time when daily momentum was being added to a movement to "draft Al Smith" to head America's largest city.

Smith, who, since his defeat for President, has been devoting his time to business and magazine editing, took cognizance of this growing sentiment in his statement.

"I shall never lose interest in or my sense of responsibility to the people of the city, of the State and of the Nation, and I shall be ready to do my part as a citizen in any emergency," his statement said, in part.

Obligations Defined.

"At present the best way I can show that interest is by helping when and where I can in public and charitable matters to which I am drawn by a sense of obligation which is as lively today as it ever has been.

"But in this willingness to be helpful, running for mayor has no part."

Three fusion and Republican leaders issued statements, all of which said Smith's action "cleared the atmosphere" and "paved the way" for the selection of Samuel Seabury as a fusion candidate to oppose the Tammany candidate.

Jilted Man Kills Girl And Then Shoots Self

Easton, Pa., May 14 (U.P.).—Vernon Amey, 30, of East Bangor, today shot and killed Mary Lillian Weaver, 27, then killed himself with the same revolver.

The two had been friendly for two years, but recently had a quarrel and the girl was understood to have forbidden Amey ever to call on her again. The shooting occurred in the home where the girl was employed as a domestic.

Gandhi's Son Forgiven On Seventh Fast Day

Poona, India, May 14 (A.P.).—The Mahatma Gandhi today celebrated the seventh day of his "irrevocable" fast by a reconciliation with his eldest son, Hiraldal Gandhi, with whom the father had not been on speaking terms for a long time.

An affectionate greeting was also given by Gandhi to his wife, who had just been released from jail. The general condition of the Mahatma today continued satisfactory.

Australia Points Need For Relief From Debt

Sydney, Australia, May 14 (U.P.).—The commonwealth government today instructed Stanley Bruce, representative in London, to point out that Australia will be forced to impose severe restrictions on imports next year unless she receives relief from her debt burden from overseas.

The attitude was the outcome of Australia's inability to negotiate a conversion loan in London, due to the treasury's ban on new issues.

German Arms Demands Are Hotly Upheld

British Press Takes Grave View of Von Papen's Saber Rattling.

London (Monday), May 15 (U.P.).—A speech by Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany at Munster last night, in which he said Germany would demand "the right to the same security as other nations," was reflected in morning newspapers here as intensifying the recurrent European war scare.

A large headline in the Daily Express read, "War or Peace?" The Express said that Europe is in the throes of nationalism and its readers were exhorted to demand "no more war." The statement that "not one British soldier shall cross the channel to fight in a European war" was underlined.

The News Chronicle, referring to the von Papen speech, printed this banner line: "Mothers to Provide Cannon Fodder." This reference was to HITLER ARMS VIEWS ARE AWATED IN U.S.

Declaration Due Wednesday Regarded as Vital to London Parleys.

(Associated Press.)

The delicate armanents situation centering around Germany last night held the attention of American statesmen who regarded it as having an important bearing on the prospects of success at the world monetary and economic conference opening at London June 12.

Officials showed keen interest in the announced purpose of Chancellor Hitler of Germany to state his government's armaments policy in a speech to the Reichstag on Wednesday. German objection to features of the British arms reduction plan has blocked action temporarily at the Geneva conference.

The part the United States will play in the efforts to surmount the obstacles to real progress toward disarmament will be directed from the Test Planet Rocket Explodes in Midair

New York, May 14 (U.P.).—A 7-foot rocket, similar in design to those in which scientists hope some day to use in flights to other planets, was set off from Staten Island today, but exploded after reaching an altitude of 300 feet.

The experiment was conducted by the American Interplanetary Society. The rocket was fueled with gasoline and liquid oxygen and excessive pressure on the oxygen tank is believed to have caused the explosion.

G. E. Pendray, engineer and inventor, said that the society is planning to build a much larger rocket for a similar experiment next fall.

State Chemist Warns Dealers in Weak Beer

Concord, N. H., May 14 (A.P.).—Dr. Charles D. Howard, State chemist, warned dealers in beer tonight that bottles of the beverage must be properly labeled or the dealers would face prosecution under the State pure food and drug act.

Howard said some beer had been shipped into the State labeled 4 per cent by volume, when tests showed it contained only 2 per cent.

Boy Accused of Murder In Death of Another

High Point, N. C., May 14 (A.P.).—A charge of murder was placed today against Griffith Welch, 15-year-old golf caddy, who was quoted by officers as confessing he threw the body of 5-year-old Robert Sechrest into a sewer after the younger boy had been injured in a bicycle accident.

Welch was held in jail without bail.

New American Minister Is Welcomed at Ottawa

Premier R. B. Bennett and a distinguished representation of the government and Diplomatic Corps greeted them.

Speech by Von Papen Bristles With War Talk.

Hitler Planning Sharp Reply to France and Britain.

Berlin, May 14 (U.P.).—An aggressive defense of Germany's armament aspirations was made by Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen at Munster tonight in a speech bristling with a war-like credo.

"There is no death more beautiful than to be killed by the enemy" he quoted from the German soldiers' song in citing the ancient German fear of a peaceful death.

"Mothers must give themselves to bearing children and fathers must fall on the battlefield to assure the future of their sons," he said.

Charges Isolation Plot.

Referring to Chancellor Adolf Hitler's anxiously awaited statement to the Reichstag on Wednesday concerning Germany's right to rearm, he asserted that "the world will then agree that for only a brief period can a great nation be robbed by material means of its vital rights, which under the divine law of things, belong to it."

Attempts were being made he declared, for the military and moral isolation of Germany, similar to the period in August, 1914, just prior to the start of the World War.

Germany, he added, intends to continue "to demand the right to the same security of other nations, meaning the disarmament of the others."

Plans of Hitler.

Chancellor Hitler intends to deliver a sharp reply to French and British refusals to admit Germany's right to rearm when he addresses the Reichstag on Wednesday, it was learned tonight.

Hitler, it was understood, will stress the alleged failure of methods followed at the arms conference in Geneva, where German delegates uttered his threat to rearm unless the former World War allies curtail their

Paris Hits Lifting Of German Pact

Paris, May 14 (A.P.).—Fears that lifting of treaty restrictions imposed on Germany would be dangerous at this time were expressed today in publication of a purported French secret memorandum replying to the original Mussolini four-power pact proposal.

This memorandum, as published in the Brussels magazine, Belge le Flambeau, insists the principle of revision of post war treaties, endorsed in the Mussolini proposal, "risks giving birth to hopes which would be impossible to satisfy, or would excite disquietudes which, even if unjustified, would not fail to place an obstacle to the reapprochement of peoples."

The document adds the French government "does not believe it advisable to attempt such an experiment at a moment when in Europe there is an evolution of feelings and institutions, of which it is impossible to discern the end."

Daladier May Change Cabinet to Get Support

Paris, May 14 (A.P.).—Premier Daladier was reported today contemplating revamping his cabinet to strengthen his support.

The budget deficit has constantly been a difficult obstacle to surmount since the Senate insists on economies to which the Socialists in the Chamber of Deputies object.

JAPANESE PUSHING ADVANCE ON PEIPING

Chinese Villages Only 50 Miles From Capital Are Bombarded.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

Behind the Chinese Lines, Yenlo, North China, May 14 (U.P.).—Japanese airplanes led in a sweeping advance of infantry and artillery units today southward below the Great Wall of China toward Peiping.

They came over in droves, heavily bombarding the Chinese lines and dropping tons of bombs on Chinese villages between here and Miyunhsien, less than 50 miles north of Peiping.

The bombs wrecked the villages. Houses and buildings were tumbled into the narrow streets. The casualties were slight, however, the civilian population having fled in terror. Their pathetic trains of ox carts, wheelbarrows and rikisha, loaded high with everything the abject refugees could salvage from their meager homes, filled the roads leading south, away from the front.

Along the entire route from Peiping to Yenlo there was not the slightest sign that the Chinese troops intended to break up and flee, as they did in the Jehol Province debacle several weeks ago. On the contrary, the Nanking regular troops, bearing the brunt of the defense of north China from the Japanese invasion, have erected formidable entrenchments at strategic points along the route.

The "no man's land" between here and Shin-Hsia, 3 miles to the north, captured by the Japanese, was deserted, and it appeared that the Chinese intended to make their next stand at Yenlo. The Japanese have lost heavily in advancing from the Wall on this front.

At Peiping, the garrison was busily erecting sandbag barricades and barbed wire entanglements throughout the city.

The Japanese in the foreign concession area at Tientsin put up sandbag "pill boxes" preparatory for defense of their concession when the war strikes there.

The facts of the Washington milk distribution as disclosed in The Post series are to be laid before the House District Committee Wednesday by Representative Loring M. Black, who describes local prices as "out of all reason," and who is anxious to learn why they are so high.

Representative Black is uncertain whether he will ask an independent House investigation and he intends to discuss the question with the full House District Committee when it meets Wednesday.

Johns Hopkins Professor Says Rocking Infants Does No Harm.

Baltimore, May 14 (A.P.).—Harassed parents, torn between a desire to rear their infant along scientific lines and an urge to keep the child contented, may welcome this.

Dr. W. C. Beasley, professor of psychology at the Johns Hopkins University, today placed his stamp of approval on one thing mothers have been doing for centuries—rocking their children.

Opposing that group which has held that under no circumstances should the infant be rocked, Dr. Beasley said actual experiments had proved it does not harm the child.

Dr. Beasley even went further. He said that age-old habit fathers have of swinging their babies high in the air does no harm—provided, of course, the baby is not dropped.

Babies he classifies as "breakable," and if they are dropped to the floor, they probably will be hurt.

The psychologist said he has managed to accumulate records of babies rocked to sleep and records of babies tossed by their fathers, and is of the opinion the "don'ts" along this line are so much bunk.

He even gives the best technique for tossing the infant: Seat the baby on a pillow, hold firmly to baby and pillow, elevate the whole armful and lower it, being careful not to let go.

Babies, said Dr. Beasley, may be safely trusted to their mothers and, to a lesser extent, to their fathers.

Declares Statistics Comparing Milk Prices With Those in Other Cities Are Confusing to Readers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your series of articles in current issues relative to the price of milk have attracted my attention.

I am not connected with a dairy, but have a certain amount of knowledge of the situation, and feel that your articles may be misleading to readers and thus work an injustice on Washington dairies. You have been frank in giving certain statistics, but unless the reader understands them the figures by themselves produce a wrong impression.

During April the basic price paid to the farmer by Washington dairies was 2.79 a hundred pounds. This was the highest figure in the United States except in Durham, N. C., which was 1 penny higher. It is unfair to compare prices unless one is at the same time comparing the same commodities, or at least commodities calculated from a common basis. Your tables do not recognize this condition. For example, the Washington milk at 13 cents runs from 4.1 per cent to 4.5 per cent butterfat, and Washington dairies do not supply milk of low butterfat content. The New York milk at 10 cents is 3.6 per cent and is grade B milk. Grade A milk in New York sells for 13 cents, the same price charged in Washington, notwithstanding it is lower in butterfat content than Washington milk. Similarly, milk in Baltimore, Richmond, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh has lower butterfat content than Washington milk. So, let us figure the spread between the real cost of the milk to the dairy in each city. In Washington we start with a basic price of $2.79 for 3.5 per cent milk. The bonus paid for the additional cream is 7 cents per 100 pounds for each tenth of a point. Thus, for 4.2 per cent milk the bonus is 49 cents. Converting into gallons, the cost is 28.2 cents. To this must be added in the case of most Washington dairies a bonus of fully 2 cents for the farm score. Thus, the farmer receives an average of 30.2 cents a gallon. As milk retails in Washington for 12 cents and 13 cents, let us assume an average of 12½ cents a quart, or 50 cents a gallon. This gives the dairy a gross profit of 19.8 cents per gallon.

Calculating in a similar manner, the gross profit in New York City is 20.3c; in Baltimore, 22.1c; in Richmond, 22.1c; in Pittsburgh, 22.7c; in Philadelphia, 18.3c. The Philadelphia figure is a temporary condition incidental to a price war among the dairies and chain stores.

The gross profit of approximately 5c a quart must pay all of the dairy's labor charges in the plant, delivery, collections, bottle breakage and loss, and all other overhead charges, as well as the net profit, if any.

A second viewpoint of the price situation is that of the relationship between the basic price paid the producer and the retail price charged the consumer. The following table shows that in general the farmer supplying Washington milk receives a higher percentage of the retail price than is the case in any of the other cities listed in your articles. In Washington the farmer receives a minimum of 46 per cent of the retail price, and it often rune to 60 per cent. The average of the 17 tabulated cities is 39.3 per cent of the retail price:

City.	Retail price per qt.	base price per cwt.	base price to retail per qt.	% of base price.

Senator Arthur Capper is quoted as favoring no reduction in the price paid the farmer. Most reasonable persons will agree with this position; yet the price paid the farmer is the largest single item of expense to the dairy. The farmers are getting little enough for their milk and labor. Moreover, the farmers and the dairies operate under the strictest Health Department regulations. An outstanding example is the requirement of individually hemmed towels for each cow. Not only do the dairies operate under this close supervision, but they achieve Health Department scores generally in excess of 94 per cent, providing Washington with dairy products of exceptional purity and quality.

I trust I may mention another point without causing offense, and that is the question of the propriety of your articles at this particular moment in the affairs of our Nation. The administration is strongly advocating that industry use utmost efforts to raise the prices of commodities and services, and this effort is for the general welfare. Unless it can be shown that the dairy farmers supplying Washington are making extravagant profits, and that the dairies themselves are profiteering, it is not in order to object to the price paid by the housewife in Washington.

A further question is the capacity of the Washington housewife to pay a higher price for milk than is charged in other cities. I believe statistics show that per capita income in Washington is higher than in other medium-sized and large cities.

Milk is recognized as an essential and highly perishable foodstuff, and dairies who are able to meet the difficult requirements and market their products at a moderate profit are to be congratulated on their avoidance of the disastrous price wars which have occurred in other cities, and have brought no good to any one, except a temporary price advantage to the consumer.

While it may be against your policy to publish this letter, I believe that in fairness to others whose views may not be in agreement with the author of your articles, it ought to be published. Respectfully yours,

E. J. GRAYSON.

Outstanding Disparity in Dairy Prices as Compared With Other Cities Declared to Be on Cream.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Milk prices are not so far out of line when production costs are considered in the Washington area. Farmers do not receive any more than they are entitled to, however, dealers profits have always been excessive in the vicinity of Washington. The outstanding disparity with other markets is in the retail cream prices. The Washington consumer has been gouged unmercifully in the retail price of cream of all kinds for many years. Ice cream has also been very much higher than it should be in comparison with milk solids and butterfat. One of the principal troubles in Washington is the fact that this market is largely controlled by the National Dairy Products Corporation, that according to the Wall Street Journal made net profits of more than 22 million dollars, after paying interest and Federal taxes on its properties. In 1932, according to the same journal, the National made net profits of over 19 million dollars, this in face of the fact that farmers could not pay interest and taxes. The following statement is from the Wall Street Journal, and shows where the farmer got off at:

"Curtailed consumer purchasing power * * * and lower selling prices have adversely affected earnings since early in 1931. Through reduction in * * * (farm price) quotations, however, the major portion of this decline in selling prices has been passed on to the farmer, and profit margins * * * are still well maintained. Recent adjustments in prices * * * are understood to be resulting in substantially increased sales, and prospects indicate general maintenance of the present rate of earnings, through the remaining period of low public purchasing power."

The latest quotation from the American Creamery and Produce Review, published in New York, May 10, 1933, contains the following:

"In cream the platform price in New York has been firmly maintained on known brands at the $15 rate per 40-quart can."

This represents 40% sweet cream, and you can figure out for yourself what a 10-gallon can, 40 quarts, brings the distributors when put up in half pint bottles.

You should in your investigation ask for the assistance of Thomas H. McInnerney, President of the National Dairy Products Corporation, 120 Broadway, New York City.

Milk Producer Cites Expenses of Farmers and Requirements of Health Department and Urges Square Deal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been reading your articles on the price of milk. Your issue of May 10 states that the farmer is well paid for his milk. Have the gentlemen who are raising this issue taken into consideration that in some cases such as my own, that the producer receives but 12 cents per gallon for 4 per cent milk—in my case over 50 per cent is such—out of which is to be deducted brokerage, hauling and cost of production? Another fact is the expense to producers who meet the requirements of the District Health Department before they are given a permit to ship milk or cream into the city of Washington.

If the producer is given a square deal the price of milk will be raised.

Yours very truly,

HASSELL B. LEIGH.

National Board of Trade Glad Investigation of Milk Prices Has Been Started in District.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We are glad that you have started an investigation into the price of dairy products in the D. C., and am sure that a Senate investigation will be of benefit to our citizens.

Too often the farmer receives "surplus" or "condensary" prices for his milk, when in reality, it is sold in the regular way as fluid milk. The National Dairies control most of the dairy production along the Atlantic seaboard. Salaries of this organization are quite common in the $50,000 a year class, and their capitalization is $350,000,000 in round numbers. In addition to this there is a vast network of subsidiaries, and this combine dominates the price the farmer receives and the price the public pays, and the margin between these two prices is way out of all proportions to other lines of perishable commodities.

Yours very truly,

NATIONAL BOARD OF TRADE.
Fred A. Berlin, Secretary.

Weighing and Processing Methods Are Declared to Be Advantageous to Milk and Cream Distributors.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am writing you a personal letter, no for publication, but to furnish you with some information in regard to the milk and cream situation in Washington, which you and your staff writer have so ably placed before the public. There is one of the most important phases of this question which has not been covered. It is, farmers shipping milk to the distributor in Washington in five and ten gallon cans, mostly ten gallon cans, even though they are new, hold ten gallon fluid, but when they are weighed and go through their weighing scale, there is only 9¾ gallons. The farmer is paid according to weight, not measure, so you see there is a vast set-off between the weight and measure in sending out milk to their customers in ten gallon cans they charge for ten gallons of milk.

In the cream situation, cream is bought under the same conditions by weight. When the distributor gets it he puts it through a process of homogenizing which increases its volume about 6½ per cent. When they put it in the bottle, on the cap of the bottle, hardly discernible, are the words homogenized, which they are compelled to put on the cap by the Federal food and drug act. The cream, after it is homogenized and goes to the user and poured into coffee, swims on top. You have to stir it with a spoon. Whereas, cream that has never been through this process goes through the coffee.

If you want absolute information on this homogenizing process you can secure it from Mr. Kelly in the dairy marketing division, United States Agricultural Building, east wing, in the basement. If you will publish this homogenizing process you will expose one of the greatest frauds in this whole question. It is something that you have not touched on as yet. When a can of 40 gallons of cream is shipped by the farmer to the distributor, it increases in volume about six quarts, or 6½ per cent. All the correct information can be obtained where I told you in the above paragraph. If your staff writer will take it up it will create a sensation in Washington. I am also going to ask you to procure Senate Document, No. 210, Sixty-third Congress, first session, from the document room of the Senate. There are two photographs in this document that would make an ideal cartoon covering this question. It is called, "Ex-Senator Tillman's Allegorical Cow."

Hoping that you will get your staff writer to write this article as it will be one of the best things of this whole campaign.

You can further say that neither the Health Department nor the sealer of weights and measures of the District of Columbia have ever taken any notice of this matter. A. H.

Farley Rejects Adams' Tax Board Resignation

Dallas, Tex., May 14 (A.P.).—Chairman James A. Farley, of the Democratic National Committee, notified National Committeeman Jed C. Adams, of Texas, by telegram tonight that he could not accept Adams' resignation at this time. Adams immediately telegraphed back to Farley acquiescing.

He had tendered his resignation upon his appointment to the Federal Board of Tax Appeals. Vice President John N. Garner was among the men proposed to succeed him.

milk pool. A truck driver struck him on the chin and he was unconscious twenty minutes.

In Illinois no disorder was reported and E. L. Bost, leader of the strike in the northern part of the State, said an armistice had been effected pending negotiations to boost milk prices. Most milk movements into Chicago today were unaffected. The city faced no immediate shortage. Distributors in the city announced a 1-cent a quart increase for retail delivery, making quarts 10 cents. It was indicated the action would bring about a raise from $1.45 to $1.75 per 100 pounds for farmers.

Kind Police

Inebriate Uses PatrolPhone for Wagon Service and Gets It.

"I'm drunk—come on out and get me!"

Imagine the surprise of the Sixth Precinct station clerk last night when those words came over one of the new citizens police patrol phones. He snapped out of it in a hurry, though.

"Okay, pal—hang on there for a minute and we'll be around."

So they went around and got him, and at the station he said his name was Carl Ballis, 23 Shepherd road northeast, and that he was "very, very drunk."

FARMER CONFESSES ATTACK ON SPOUSE

Recants Kidnaping Tale to Admit Hurling Mother-to-Be From Auto.

Columbia, Mo., May 14 (A.P.).—Sheriff Wilson said today the reputed kidnaping of a young Buckling, Mo., farm couple had developed as an attack by the husband, Noble Brown, 21, upon his wife, an expectant mother.

The wife, 19-year-old Pauline Sportsman Brown, is in a hospital here in a critical condition from injuries officers said she received when she was thrown from a motor car near Sturgeon, Mo., early today.

Sheriff Wilson said Brown, found bound by wire in the rear seat of his car near High Hill, Mo., confessed he had choked his wife and thrown her from the machine.

Deception His Defense.

A written statement attributed to Brown by Sheriff Wilson and Sheriff Carl Brown, of Linn County, said he planned to kill her when he learned recently she was an expectant mother before they were married last February.

"In the last week or two," he said, "I planned to get rid of her."

The officers said young Brown admitted he hurled Mrs. Brown from the car while "driving about 35 miles an hour" and later "pulled off to the side of the road, took a clothes line wire, tied himself to the car and went to sleep."

He was returned to Linn County tonight to face a charge of felonious assault.

Woman Seriously Hurt.

The well-to-do youth previously had told officers and Lee Durnil, Kansas City truck driver who had liberated him from his bonds, that he was slugged and kidnaped by an unidentified assailant while returning with his wife to their home from a shopping trip in Marceline, Mo. He was quoted as saying he remembered nothing of what occurred until he was found by Durnil.

Physicians said Mrs. Brown, suffering from a severe gash on her head, a possible fracture and bruises, was not able to give details of the case. She was found unconscious in a roadside ditch by Jack Hawkins, a farmer.

The Browns were married February 13.

Brew Mash With Lye Fatal to Ranch Cattle

Moffett, Okla., May 14 (A.P.).—Mystery in the death of scores of cattle and goats on Leon Williams' ranch has been solved. An analysis of the stomach contents of two cows, the latets victims, revealed they died from eating whisky mash containing lye. Authorities are investigating.

Oregon Tabby Adopts 2 Young Groundhogs

FACTION STRIFE DUE IN FT. HUNT CAMP

Brown and a pair of aids arrived to join Rhone and Patton. A parley began. Salzman was vociferous.

"Campaigned for Roosevelt."

"Why, I campaigned for Gov. Roosevelt," he said. "I'm from his State. Once during a campaign he held his hand on my shoulder as he made a speech."

After some conversation, Maj. Brown freed the coterie and sent them back to their Seaton Park stand, where a ball game between two colored teams had been called off on account of the small bonus army occupation.

Later some of Salzman's men were persuaded by Mike Thomas, "right wing" leader of the Fort Hunt contingent, to come down there. At a late hour last night, Salzman with about ten loyal adherents was still refusing to join the Fort Hunt legions.

Capital Parade Called Off.

Down at Fort Hunt, there was no actual convention, but all the undercover electioneering that goes with a big national political convention was going on. There were at least a score of leaders who were pulling their strings and holding parleys anent today.

The Veterans National Liaison Committee—from which Emmanuel Levin and Harold Hickerson, Communists, have resigned—was still in charge of the bulk of the camp with a "B. E. F." wing led by Thomas in isolated quarters.

The parade scheduled for today in Washington has been called off pending decision as to the amalgamation of the two factions. This factor promises the excitement for today with business of adopting bonus payment advocacies and other agenda temporarily laid aside.

Registration Still Goes On.

The registration tents for Fort Hunt are still maintained here, and late convention arrivals are trickling in and being taken to the reservation in Veterans' Administration buses.

Postponement of the parade was coupled with an announcement that the bonus convention would be switched into the heart of Washington within 48 hours. Notice was served that a strong move would be made to obtain Washington Auditorium for convention sessions.

Representatives Visit Camp.

Several members of Congress visited the camp during the day including Mrs. Virginia Jenckes, Indiana Democrat, who seems to be very much in sympathy with the bonusites. She took a large parcel of tobacco, "makin's" for the veterans and was received with generous applause by the men.

About 500 motorists parked their cars at different times during the day at Fort Hunt and strolled curiously through the encampment. The dinner and supper hours were particularly well attended. Most of the cars were from Washington and nearby Virginia.

One straggler from the camp was reported temporarily arrested by the heavy squadron of Virginia State troopers bivouacking just over on the Old Dominion side of the camp. Two others were also questioned and all three were finally shooed back to the Army post.

INCREASED WHISKY CONSUMPTION SEEN

Relaxed Medicinal Liquor Rules Expected to Boost Amount Used.

(Associated Press.)

Some Federal officials here expect a sharp increase in the consumption of medicinal liquor starting today, when the new law relaxing prescription restrictions becomes effective, but there is plenty of whisky available in bonded warehouses.

Figures of the Industrial Alcohol Bureau show approximately 5,000,000 gallons of preprohibition whisky still on hand. In addition, about 6,000,000 gallons of green whisky will begin reaching the four-year maturity point in the fall. Distilleries were permitted to begin manufacturing liquor again in 1929, as the stock in the warehouses began to show signs of running out.

Since consumption of prescription whisky was only about 1,000,000 gallons last year, officials expect that even with the increased consumption there is sufficient domestic whisky to fill all demands without resorting to imports.

The bureau's consumption figures for 1918 showed 59,000,000 gallons of whisky were used, while in some years prior to prohibition consumption ran as high as 90,000,000 gallons. This included imported spirits.

Under the new regulations which become effective tomorrow, virtually all of the restrictions upon the prescriptions of liquor and wine by physicians are lifted. Without being required as in the past to send a duplicate of the prescription to Federal supervisors, physicians will be permitted to prescribe without specifying the ailment. In addition, the limitation of 1 pint a week per patient will be modified so that a physician may prescribe to the extent that he deems necessary.

However, when prescribing at one time for an extended period of months, he must notify the government of the amount but is not required to reveal the ailment except on specific request of an enforcement agent, who, in turn, must have direct authority from a superior.

The putting into effect of the medicinal liquor regulations is the second modification of the prohibition laws since March 4, legalizing of 3.2 beer and wine having been the first.

Increase Reported In Wholesale Trade

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—Definite improvement in both wholesale sales and collections throughout the country is reported in a survey by the National Association of Credit Men, made public tonight. The survey is based on monthly reports from correspondents in 104 major markets scattered over 48 States.

"Good collections" in April were reported from San Diego, Calif.; Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Springfield, Mass., and Detroit, with San Diego also in the "goods sales" column. The report said:

"Contrasting the May and April surveys brings out the especially strong improvement, 51 per cent of the reports in May noting 'fair' conditions in sales, as compared with 33 per cent in April. In collections the May percentage is 41 per cent in the 'fair' column, compared with 19 per cent in April."

Ridley Death Clew Sought in Diaries

New York, May 14 (U.P.).—Three diaries were studied by detectives today in the search for a clew to the murder of Edward Ridley, eccentric millionaire, and his secretary, Lee Weinstein.

One of the diaries was kept by Ridley himself, one by Weinstein and one by Herman Moench, who was murdered two years ago in the same subcellar office where Ridley and Weinstein met death last week.

Police refused to give out anything contained in the books and indicated they considered them to be important. It was learned that Ridley had approximately $1,000,000 in safety deposit boxes and on deposit in local banks.

EXTORTIONIST SLAIN AS HE TAKES MONEY

Demander of $25,000 Is Shot in Trap by Police; Partner Confesses.

Milwaukee, May 14 (A.P.).—Frank H. Jess was shot to death early today when he walked into a police trap laid for extortionists who sought to wrest $25,000 from Lloyd R. Smith, millionaire manufacturer.

The money, authorities said, was placed in a can under a street sign post in keeping with directions sent Smith in the climactic letter of a series of messages which threatened the life of the wealthy Milwaukeean and his five children.

Detective John Riley, dressed to resemble Smith, left the funds in the designated spot and retired to a discreet distance. Shortly afterward the can was drawn into a nearby field by means of a wire lariat. As Jess seized the container and started to flee, police called upon him to halt. He continued his flight. The officers fired and Jess fell.

Authorities later seized Oscar Mueller, 27, who, they said, confessed he and Jess engineered the plot.

Mueller told police he and his partner, heavily in debt in the garage business in suburban Wauwatosa, hit upon the extortion scheme as a means of raising money.

Capital Girl Wins Prize In Art at Philadelphia

Philadelphia, May 14 (A.P.).—Miss Pauline Beck, of Milwaukee, today was awarded first prize in the portrait section of the fine arts exhibition held as an opening feature of the annual conference of the Association of Junior League of America, Inc.

Other winners included Miss Mary Elizabeth Partridge, of Washington, who took second prize in water colors.

Farmer and Sister Murdered in Home

Indiana, Pa., May 14 (A.P.).—The dismembered bodies of James H. Allison, 74, prominent farmer, and his sister, Miss Belle Allison, 76, today were found in the burning ruins of their farmhouse.

Police say the aged couple, who had lived together for many years, were apparently murdered and their home, five miles from Indiana, burned to conceal the crime. The heads, arms and legs were missing.

Miners, who discovered the fire while returning from work early today, said they saw a car roar away from the flaming farmhouse.

The men roused neighbors and attempted to extinguish the fire and rescue Allison and his sister. They failed to locate the bodies and the house burned to the ground.

Police found the victims about noon. They were lying in the living room on the first floor of the residence.

Sheriff A. Eugene Wilson said tonight there was evidence the Allisons had been slain. He said neighbors reported that the fire started in the rear of the house and that the couple would have had ample time to escape.

APE BRAIN FOUND NEAR HUMAN SIZE

than the average for six full-grown female coast gorillas previously studied, which was 379.3 grams. The average brain weight of three young coast gorillas about Okero's age was only 318.8 grams.

"There might be the implication," says the Smithsonian report, "that the mountain gorilla represents a considerable step upward from the level of the great apes toward the plane of homo sapiens."

It goes on to point out, however, that the evidence is only fragmentary.

Okero's large brain weight is regarded as important because the ratio of brain weight to body weight is taken as a rough index of intelligence. Though Okero weighed only 40 pounds, his brain weighed more than those of adult gorillas of much greater body weight, and much more than brains of young gorillas of comparable age. Human beings, however, seldom weighing more than 200 pounds, have a far heavier brain in proportion to this weight than most adult gorillas, which sometimes weigh up to 400 pounds.

Flyer Is Derailed By Defect in Steel

Exeter, N. H., May 14 (U.P.).—The engine of the Sunday Yankee Flyer, crack train of the Boston & Maine Railroad, was derailed here tonight as it was pulling out of Exeter station.

The engine's main axle broke, due to a flaw in the steel, and it left the track. Because the train was moving slowly, none of the nine cars, which were carrying 300 passengers, was derailed. An increase of 10 miles per hour in the train's speed might have resulted in a more serious accident, trainmen said.

Service was resumed after a two-hour delay. The Flyer operates between Portland and Boston.

MEANS PROSECUTION PLEADS CASE TODAY

Rover Will Attempt to Prove Kidnap Story Mere "Fanciful Tale."

(Associated Press.)

In an effort to prove their contention that Gaston B. Means' story of the part he played in the attempted ransom of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby is a mere "fanciful tale," Government prosecutors will have the floor of District Supreme Court today in a resumption of the sensational ransom hoax trial.

District Attorney Leo A. Rover was hopeful that the case could be placed in the hands of the jury by tonight.

Norman T. Whitaker, codefendant with Means on the charge of conspiring to defraud Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $35,000, may take the stand, but last night this had not been decided definitely.

Whether Whitaker, alias "The Fox," does testify rests with his attorney. It has been intimated, however, that he will do so in order to prove his contention that he acted entirely under instructions from Means and had no other direct connection with the case.

Stronger Navy Plea Of Admiral Coontz

Philadelphia, May 14 (A.P.).—A plea for a stronger Navy was made today by Admiral R. E. Coontz, retired, now commander in chief, veterans of foreign wars, at the thirty-fifth anniversary celebration of the Battle of Manila Bay.

The celebration, postponed from May 1, was held on the decks of Admiral Dewey's flagship, The Olympic, in the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Maj. Joseph W. Maus, commander Department of Pennsylvania, United Spanish War Veterans, urged better protection for the West Coast.

Thomas, 'Gold Hoarder,' Is Challenged to Debate

(Associated Press.)

Former Senator Charles S. Thomas, of Denver, failed to get a rise out of the Government when he recently bid for prosecution for his holding out slightly more than the $100 in gold permitted under the anti-hoarding regulations, but he did get a challenge yesterday for a debate on the question.

Orval Grim, secretary to Representative Rogers (Democrat), Oklahoma, said he had sent Thomas the following telegram: "I challenge you to debate the gold order at any neutral place. You frame the question; let the audience be the judges."

John Paul Jones' Namesake Tries New Line for Living

Blind Young Man Takes to Chair Work in His Novel Plan.

Exhibiting a courage equal in many respects to that of his famous namesake, John Paul Jones, blind young man, is supporting himself by making genuine twisted rush seats for chairs at the Columbia Polytechnic Institute for the Blind, 1808 H street northwest. More than that and despite his handicap, this young man, out of his meagre earnings, is sending a small amount weekly to his elderly parents in Georgia.

Jones' father was a poor, hard-working carpenter in Georgia. At the age of 4, the youngster's eyesight began to fail and he soon knew that he was to be totally blind. Undiscouraged, he took up the study of Braille and mastered it to a degree that he now puts in his spare time in transcribing magazines and books into Braille and in proof-reading Braille manuscripts. In addition to this, he has taught several other blind persons to read and write Braille.

When he came to Washington seven years ago, young Jones was unable to find work at transcribing or proof-reading manuscript for the blind and he turned his attention to caning chairs, obtaining work through the Columbia Polytechnic Institute for the Blind. Learning that high prices were paid for genuine rush seats, the young man turned his attention to this work and in nine months had mastered this difficult trade, turning out seats that are duplicates of those found in the early American furniture.

The rush from which the seats are made is three-cornered and is cut and cured largely in the same manner as tobacco. Received at the Columbia Polytechnic Institute for the Blind, it is made pliable with hot water and steam and three strands of the three-cornered rush are twisted together for use in weaving. The work is difficult and tedious and one chair furnishes one 8-hour day's work for one man.

Jones has restored a number of American antiques with these new rush seats and only recently completed a set of six Hitchcock chairs, the seats of which matched perfectly.

Cheerful and happy, he finds the utmost pleasure in his work. "If the people will just keep supplying me with work so that I can earn enough for my own simple needs and help a little with the expenses of my folks in Georgia, I will ask nothing more out of life," he told the reporter.

Stranded Veteran Faces Eviction With 2 Children

It was a forlorn Mother's Day yesterday for Bernard Heywood, 8, and Dorothy Heywood, 11, the motherless children of Ernest Heywood, 36-year-old World War veteran.

Jobless and facing eviction from the small room they occupy, the trio wandered into East Seaton Park yesterday. The children played on the grass while their father listened to the bombastic orations of a small group of bonus-seeking veterans.

Soon Heywood turned away without hope in his eyes. He walked up and down, lost in thought. Occasionally Bernard would grasp his hand and say:

"Come, daddy, let's go home."

Home is a downtown boarding house. Bernard and Dorothy are too young to understand that "home" won't be "home" very much longer. Capt. Patrick J. Carroll, gruff and good-hearted park police head, began a move to help the trio out of their dilemma as did officials of Victory Post of the American Legion. Last night their efforts hadn't yet assumed a bright outlook for the Heywoods.

Heywood served five years with the regular army, including duty in France in the World War. He is from Batesville, Ark. After the war he went to Baltimore and served as a city policeman and trolley conductor. Two years ago his wife, whom he had wooed and married in Baltimore, died.

Several months ago Heywood lost his job. With meager savings he came to Washington to seek work. His quest has been a failure so far. Now the small fund is gone. Heywood has a small car that is impounded at Police Headquarters under a traffic regulation technicality.

"If I could get the car and some gas, I could take the kids back to Batesville. My mother has a farm there and I believe we could get by. But I can't get the car," he concluded hopelessly.

Boycott of German Goods Established

New York, May 14 (A.P.).— An organization to effect a boycott of German products in this country was set up today by a meeting sponsored by the American League for the Defense of Jewish Rights, which said some 300 organizations were represented.

A national council was formed of delegates from all the organizations represented at the session and subcommittees were organized to enlist professional, trade and commercial groups in the movement.

Isaac Allen, grand master of the Sons of Zion, presided. The speakers included James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany; Henry T. Hunt, former Mayor of Cincinnati; former Representative F. H. LaGuardia and Samuel Untermyer.

Liquor Find Explains Ditch-Cleaning Flurry

Hood River, Oreg., May 14 (A.P.).—G. W. Kollas offers an explanation for widespread cleaning of irrigation ditches hereabouts. Kollas dug out an orchard ditch first. He said the general activity started after his spade unearthed a bottle of "fine liquor."

Stewart-Warner's Directors Accused

Chicago, May 14 (A.P.).—Oscar U. Zerk, chairman of the opposition committee of stockholders of Stewart-Warner Corporation, today made public a letter mailed to stockholders charging "many disturbing conditions" in the management of the company and asking proxies to elect a new board of directors.

The letter said that the corporation has lost millions of dollars through continued manufacture of unprofitable lines; "the books show that large expenditures which should have been charged to current expenses were charged against the surplus which was earned in previous years;" and that "even in the depression year of 1932" that four directors as officers had "paid themselves salaries totaling within 1½ per cent of the total paid them collectively during the boom year of 1928."

The letter said "to remedy the situation an entirely new board is necessary."

25 Britons to Study in U. S.

New York May 14 (A.P.).—A British committee of award, of which the Prince of Wales is honorary chairman, has notified the Commonwealth Fund of its selection of 25 British students who will spend the next two years in the United States as guests of the fund, it was announced tonight.

CATHOLIC PARISHES HONOR VIRGIN MARY

Hundreds of Children Take Part in Processions Throughout City.

Dressed in white and carrying bouquets of spring flowers, hundreds of children in various Catholic parishes took part in May processions yesterday in honor of the Virgin Mary.

Each Sunday during this month May ceremonies are being held at Catholic churches. The majority took place yesterday.

The procession was a colorful feature of the Mother's Day service at the Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes in the Church of the Immaculate Conception. It was composed of girl students of the Immaculate Conception High School for Girls, dressed in pastel gowns with hats to match.

The May Queen, Miss Mary Hellmuth, wore pure white satin with a tulle train. Her trainbearers were Robert and Joseph Klophfer, who were dressed in white satin page suits and plumed hats. Helen Quigg and Josephine Hillyard, maids of honor, were attired in blue gowns and carried bouquets of shower pink roses. Little Miss Patricia Hurney preceded the queen, carrying the offering of flowers on a satin pillow.

The Consecration of Mothers to Our Lady was recited by Miss Ada Woulfe. She was attended by little Mary Alberta Burch and Patricia Woulfe. Miss Helen Doonis, representing the mothers, read the Consecration of Children to Our Lady.

Graduates Compose Court.

The court was composed of members of the graduating class of the Immaculate Conception High School. These girls were dressed in pastel princess gowns of mousseline de soie, with full flared skirts. The sleeves were of puffed bracelet style. A soft bertha collar of the same material finished the neckline. The hats, in pastel shades of organdy, were small turbans with brim of halo effect, trimmed with the petals at the back.

The music, under the direction of Harry Wheaton Howard, included Msis Florence Yocum, soprano; Miss Ann Arlen, violinist, and the Boys Sanctuary Choir.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church, gave the address and presided. He was assisted by the Rev. S. A. Czyz, the Rev. J. Kelly Reese and the Friars of the Atonement.

St. Gabriel's Church at Grant Circle northwest was the scene of another brilliant ceremony in which 700 children took part. Rita Kummer was the May Queen. Her maids of honor were Elizabeth Batchelder, Joan Murphy and Gertrude Colliflower. Edgar Ehlerf was train bearer.

The flower girls were Rose Mary Cuff, Mary Abernethy, Emily Duchefne and Lillian Hanrahan. Boys of the seventh and eighth grades composed the guard of honor.

Bishop John M. McNamara made an address to the children and their parents and friends after the floral tribute had been laid at the altar of the Virgin Mary.

Holy Cross Has Procession.

Holy Cross Academy was the scene of a processional last night. Miss Margaret Batchelder was the queen and members of the 1933 graduating class made up the court of honor. More than 200 students took part in the procession, which closed with benediction in the Shrine of the Blessed Virgin, on the campus. Dr. John O'Grady, chaplain of the academy, officiated.

The ceremonies were not confined entirely to the suburban sections. St. Patrick's, on Tenth street northwest, in the center of the dowtown section, was the scene of a picturesque procession in which Josephine Bresnahan was the queen. Her attendants were Lawrine Winlack and Dorothy Bonner.

Elizabeth Klophfer was crown bearer and Mary Ann O'Leary and Anna Marie Cronin were train bearers. Students from St. Patrick's Academy, St. Vincent's and St. Joseph's Home and School, 400 in all, were in the procession, which circled the block occupied by Woodward & Lothrop. The procession was headed by Harry Aburovow and Joseph Becker, who carried American and papal flags.

The procession at the Church of the Holy Comforter, East Capitol and Fourteenth streets, was led by Boy Scouts of Troop 93, the Holy Comforter Boys Band, members of the Holy Name Society, the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin and the League of the Sacred Heart, 60 altar boys dressed in red cassocks and white surplices and 800 children.

Mary Keller was the May Queen. The Rev. James Connell, the pastor, officiated.

Maxine Challender Queen.

Maxine Challender was the May Queen at St. Augustine's, 1715 Fifteenth street northwest, while Christine Taylor and Adam Greenfield were maids of honor. Patricia Gasken and Alma Plumer were crown bearers and Marian Richardson and Emily Harrison, train bearers.

The crowning hymn was sung by children of St. Mary Sodality. The Rev. A. J. Olds conducted the service. He was assisted by the Rev. Father Rankin and the Rev. Father King.

St. Francis de Sales, 2021 Rhode Island avenue northeast, had as its May Queen Margaret Harrison. The attendants were Rose Offenstein and Dolores Allen.

Margaret Barrett was the May Queen at St. Aloysius. Her attendants were Mary McDonnell and Elizabeth Haley.

Next Sunday, the Church of the Nativity, St. Martin's, the Church of the Epiphany, St. Anthony's and St. Peter's will have processions. On the following Sunday, St. Cyprien's, St. Francis Xavier and St. Paul's will pay their annual tribute to the Blessed Mary.

Women to Present Disarmament Plea

(Associated Press.)

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom said last night that thousands of petitions calling for disarmament would be presented to President Roosevelt Saturday, by its representatives after a month-long, Nation-wide campaign.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, was announced as the main speaker at a dinner to be given in honor of the campangners when they reach the Capital simultaneous with the opening of the annual meeting of the Women's International League.

The peace organizations reported "enthusiastic receptions accorded the disarmament messengers," who had obtained among the signatures those of mayors from San Francisco, Jacksonville, Milwaukee and Rochester, N. Y., as well as that of former Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit, new Governor General of the Philippines.

Looks Champ

Handsomest and Homeliest on C. U. Campus Are on Football Squad.

THOMAS WHELAN.

The Catholic University student body has decided that Thomas Whelan, stellar performer of the varsity football squad, is the handsomest man on the campus. Then, realizing that these good looking fellows are always grabbing the spotlight, the electors ruled that the other half should have a break.

Consequently, the students again cast ballots and Thomas Gearty, also a member of the football squad, was chosen as the university's "homeliest" man.

The contest was held under auspices of the athletic department and student publication.

Atlanta Beer

Council Expected to Act Today on Legalization of 3.2 Product.

Atlanta, Ga., May 14 (U.P.).—City Council tomorrow is expected to consider an ordinance to legalize sale and taxation of 3.2 per cent beer in the capital of bone-dry Georgia.

Proponents of the beer ordinance today claimed 27 votes, or 7 more than the majority needed, and predicted rapid passage of the measure, similar to that already enacted in seven cities in the State.

Georgia has had a one-half of 1 per cent prohibition law since long before national prohibition. Although a majority of both houses of the Legislature have signed petitions urging Gov. Eugene Talmadge to call an extraordinary beer session of the General Assembly, he has refused to do so, and the next regular biennial session is not scheduled until the spring of 1935.

The local city ordinances are possible in this State because of the lack of State enforcement authorities. City police departments are prevented from making arrests in beer cases because of the proposed ordinance, and county sheriffs, if disposed to overlook beer sales in violation of the tate law, can not be held responsible by State authorities, even the governor. There is no State constabulary.

The boy told police the shots were fired by two unidentified youths, who fled after wounding him.

Move to Restore Hapsburgs Gains

Budapest, Hungary, May 14 (U.P.).—Monarchists were active again today, following declarations by two of their leaders, Count Sigray and Baron Kray, favoring union with Austria and restoration of the Hapsburgs.

The Farmers Party, which has been the main opposition to the plan, decided its members were free to choose either side of the question, as long as it does not affect the vital interests of the party.

The Christian Party, most of whose members are Monarchists, decided to maintain a policy of strengthening the economic links with Austria, but retain the right freely to criticize the government.

Heavy Increase Shown In Help for Homeless

(Associated Press.)

A compilation of reports by the Children's Bureau of the Labor Department yesterday showed the number of meals and lodgings provided to homeless and transient persons reached a new peak in February.

The reports came from 192 agencies in 62 cities. They showed nearly 1,900,000 meals were served by the reporting agencies in February and 600,000 night's lodgings were provided. These represented increases of 16 and 22 per cent, respectively, over February, 1932.

NEW CONSERVATION POLICY IS FORECAST

More Aggressive Course Is Portended by Naming of Slattery.

A more aggressive policy in the conservation of American natural resources is expected to follow the recent appointment of Harry A. Slattery as special assistant to Secretary of the Interior Ickes. Secretary Ickes interprets the functions of his department as nearest in their everyday application to the needs of most men. He intends to bring to the administration of his department the same high spirit that characterized the term of office of former Secretary of the Interior Lane.

The appointment of Mr. Slattery has been hailed with greater unanimity than a majority of recent Presidential appointments. He was born in Greenville, S. C., of an old family prominent in the Confederate Army. Last year several of his friends celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his career in public life and the dinner at the Cosmos Club united such men as Senator Robert La Follette, of Wisconsin; Senator Norris, of Nebraska; Speaker of the House Rainey and scores of other figures in all political parties.

Mr. Slattery was Assistant Secretary of the Interior under former Secretary Lane in the administration of President Wilson. He was closely associated in the conservation work of Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, and served as counsel for the National Conservation Association.

Secretary Ickes has in prospect a new policy of administering American national resources. The presence of Mr. Slattery, who was one of the most prominent figures in prosecuting the Teapot Dome oil inquiry, together with the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, is believed to indicate the new character of the administration.

Mr. Slattery makes his home with his mother in South Carolina although he also maintains a residence here. He is expected to begin his new duties today.

255 Forestation Corps Men Start for 2 Camps

Two hundred and fifty-five members of the Civilian Conservation Corps left Fort Washington last night for two sites in the Virginia woods, where they will set up camps and start work immediately.

One company under the command of First Lieut. Kent J. Nelson, U. S. A., went by boat to Alexandria, Va., where they boarded a special train for Edinburgh, Va., from which point they proceeded to Wolf Gap in the Shenandoah Park by bus. They traveled all night and were scheduled to arrive there at 5:00 this morning. Seventy men were in this party, which included Lieut. Forest Caraway, U. S. A.

Capt. Edgar A. C. Curran, U. S. A., headed another party from the nearby Army post, which was made up of 185 men. Lieut. Chester Hammond, U. S. A., was the junior officer in this party. They left at 7 p. m., coming here to catch a train for Balcony Falls, Va. From this point they are expected to catch buses for Natural Bridge, Va., where they will set up their camp. They are scheduled to arrive early this morning.

A company of 180 men left Fort Humphreys last night for the Skyland, Va., camp under the command of First Lieut. Christian Knudson, of the Third Cavalry.

Director of Reforestation Visits Camp by Surprise

Fechner Eats Regular Meal With Men and Returns to Capital Enthusiastic Over Project and Generally Satisfied Attitude of Luray Workers.

(United Press.)

Robert D. Fechner, director of the Government's vast reforestation project, paid a surprise visit to Roosevelt Camp No. 1 near Luray, Va., yesterday and found the menu so tempting that he stayed for lunch.

For days the former Massachusetts labor executive has longed to visit with the young foresters, but business interfered. Yesterday he took a busman's holiday.

At 7 a. m. he telephoned members of his office staff. An hour later a limousine was streaking toward the Roosevelt camp. The party arrived shortly before noon. Fechner strolled into officers' headquarters and introduced himself.

A few moments afterward he sniffed the tempting odors of food. The mountain trip had put a fine edge on his appetite. So Fechner sat with the officers and ate the same food as the men: Steak, peas, asparagus, mashed potatoes, apple pie and coffee.

Lunch over, he began his inspection.

"Like it here, sonny?" Fechner asked one lad, tanned a deep brown and with hands hardened by swinging an ax.

"Sure, it's great," the youth replied. "I don't know how the rest feel about it, but I hope it goes on and on."

"Any grumbling?" the former labor executive asked.

"A little," the forester answered, "but isn't there always grumbling when a gang of guys get together?"

Fechner said he supposed there was and walked on.

Suddenly one youth held up a long black snake.

"My pal," he explained. "I'm teaching it to do tricks."

Few of the 200 youths in the Roosevelt camp knew who their visitor was. He stopped to chat a few moments with a group struggling with a jigsaw puzzle and a few moments later was inspecting thoroughly the sleeping quarters.

There was no calling of the men to attention or no ceremony. Fechner might have been just another tourist visiting the camp. He returned to the Capital shortly after 6 p. m., enthusiastic about the project and his visit.

"They're a fine group of fellows," he said. "I'm delighted with everything."

"What truth is there to rumors that there are a lot of desertions and dissensions at Camp No. 1," he was asked.

"A few of the boys are A. W. O. L.," Fechner smiled. "But some of these want to come back. If there is any dissension there, I didn't hear of it and I've got pretty good ears."

Later Fechner said in a statement that the young foresters in the Nation will add hundred of millions of dollars of value to America's forested areas, and reduce fire losses therein at least $18,000,000 annually.

DR. GAVIN TELLS AIM OF 'OXFORD REVIVAL'

Centenary of Landmark in Religion Is Observed at Cathedral.

"A new trumpet call to life of hard self-discipline and denial is the only hope for our age in these times of dominance of secularism," the Rev. Dr. Frank Gavin, of the General Theological Seminary in New York, declared in the Washington Catherdral yesterday afternoon in services commemorating the 100th anniversary of the "Oxford Revival."

One of the leading scholars in the Protestant Episcopal Church, Dr. Gavin has received the doctorate of laws from the University of Cincinnati in addition to doctorate of philosophy from Columbia and of theology from Harvard.

"The Oxford Revival of 1833 had a three-fold objective," Dr. Gavin said. It concerned itself first with a representation of Christian ethics and morals in the light of the Incarnation. As C. C. J. Webb and Yugve Brilioth have pointed out, it had a strong moralistic note. Second, it offered a representation of the ideal of sanctity and holiness, of the paramountcy of the claim of God on men's lives and their regeneration. Their potential power and capacity is shown not only in the incarnation, but primarily in the risen Christ: God revealed not only Himself to mankind, but man's own truest nature to men. It restored and restated the ideal of Christian holiness—the dedicated and consecrated life. Thirdly it revindicated the supernatural origin and character of the church, the body of Christ, as over against the State and the world in general. With Keble's Assize Sermon (July 14, 1833) it began.

"A century has elapsed. Its message of progressive understanding of revealed truth is still fresh; the bond between men's ethics and the quality of God needs ever new restatement; the commonly called 'degradation' of our nature demands revision in the light of the capacities of humanity as revealed in the Resurrection. With the new gospel of Anti-christ from Red Russia—'There is no God and Lenin is his prophet'—a strict assesment of the relations of the Church as divine must be undertaken in order to declare the independence of the mystical Body of Christ from the contamination of worldliness and secularism. We are but on the edge of fresh disclosures by that 'Spirit who will guide us into all the truth'—progressive development and loyal advance onward into the recognition and embodiment of the ideals set a century ago. As the Holy Spirit does not violate Himself, we follow his path leading into a new reclamation of ethics, a fresh ideal for men, and a triumphant declaration of independence of the Church from this world's ideals and standards."

The next sermon in the commemoration program at Mount Saint Alban will be delivered Wednesday evening in St. Alban's Parish Church on Wisconsin avenue by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn, N. Y. His theme will be "The Oxford Movement and Protestantism." The final sermon will be delivered next Sunday afternoon in the Great Choir of the Cathedral by the Rev. Julian Hamlin, rector of the Church of the Advent in Boston, who will take as his theme "The Future of the Oxford Movement."

Music of Creoles Theme of Recital

The Mu-So-Lit Club presented Miss Camille Lucille Nickerson, of Howard University Conservatory of Music, in a recital last night at the club parlors, 1337 R street northwest. Her theme was the music of the Creoles of Louisiana. After giving a historical account of the Creoles in this country, she rendered a comprehensive repertoire of their folk songs, interpreting a motive underlying each song.

Louis Baughn Jones, violinist, assisted Miss Nickerson with accompaniments in the interpretations. M. Grant Lucas, president of the club, extended greetings on behalf of the membership. A. Langston Taylor, chairman of the Sunday forum, served as master of ceremonies.

A meeting of the club will be held tonight to complete a business program.

HITLER ARMS VIEWS ARE AWAITED IN U. S.

At the State Department a careful check will be kept on all developments in this field while active preparations go forward for the departure, little more than two weeks hence, of the American delegation to the momentous London conference. The President has asserted that military disarmament is imperative if "economic disarmament" is to be achieved.

Other preliminary international conversations will be held, meanwhile, with the Mexican and Chinese delegations already here, a Brazilian group coming tomorrow and with Japanese officials reaching Washington on May 23. A Chilean visit at the end of the month will complete this unprecedented series of White House conversations.

While the German situation held paramount attention in world affairs, the Foreign Policy Association, a private research organization, yesterday made public a report analyzing the effects as it saw them upon Europe of the rise of Adolf Hitler to power in the Reich.

The report, written by Vera M. Dean, with the aid of the association's research staff, says the victory of Hitlerism in Germany "has not only crystalized tendencies which had been at work in Europe during the post-war years, but has precipitated new developments which may eventually lead to a fundamental readjustment of European diplomatic alignments."

It pictures France as alarmed by German nationalism, and as seeking closer relations with the Soviet Union, described as one of Germany's stanchest post war friends until recently, and with Italy, which supports the German demand for treaty revision.

Strides to Economy Taken By Nearly Score of States

Bureaus Abolished, Departments Merged and Unneeded Employes Dismissed in Concerted Drive Throughout Country to Save Money.

Chicago, May 14 (A.P.).—A concerted drive is being made by States to abolish bureaus, consolidate departments and eliminate unnecessary employes.

About a score, a survey today showed, already have cut wastage and overhead to do away with overlapping functions in State government. In others legislation is pending.

Utah and West Virginia Legislatures voted their governments authority to combine or abolish any State departments. The executives have not as yet exercised the new power.

Major eliminations ordered in financially harrassed States include:

Massachusetts—Division of parks, some inspection and ornithology, and industrial and development commission.

South Carolina—Warehouse department, bank examiner's office, natural resources commission and food research laboratory.

Arkansas—Bureau of mines, manufactures and agriculture, bureau of criminal identification, aeronautical division of highway department.

Nebraska—Securities Bureau, Public Library Commission, and adult immigrant education work.

North Dakota—Immigration department and receiver of closed banks.

Tennessee—Department of Markets, Division of Sanitary Engineering.

North Carolina—Corporation and tax commissions and counsel to governor.

Oklahoma—Market commission and plant board. Also, Gov. Murray vetoed appropriation for maternity and infancy bureau.

California—Bureau of publications and documents.

Colorado—Law enforcement department and several minor boards.

In addition, California dispensed with 42 special attorneys, Montana fired three State school supervisors, Washington cut away one-third of its highway department force at the capitol and many insurance inspectors. Tennessee reduced its highway patrol, and Montana its National Guard.

Illinois, Ohio and Vermont eliminated many job holders, and Wisconsin restricted its governmental activities.

Arkansas merged its railroad and tax commissions, and its automobile license and revenue departments. North Carolina consolidated its highway and penal departments, and then put its highway patrol, weights and measures, motor vehicle and gasoline and oil inspection bureaus under "revenue."

Indiana grouped 160 boards and bureaus under 8 departments. Iowa reorganized its auditing system. Missouri, Kansas and Idaho each consolidated half a dozen departments, with many officials being let out.

Oregon, Maine, Texas, Maryland, Minnesota and Florida made no consolidations, although the latter two Legislatures are still trying.

Legislatures in Connecticut, New Hampshire and Arizona declined to change the machinery of State.

MARYLAND TO PROBE CANCER DEATH CASE

State Medical Examiners to Consider Action Against Two Physicians.

Baltimore, May 14 (A.P.).—Dr. Henry M. Fitzhugh, secretary of the Maryland State Board of Medical Examiners, said tonight his organization plans to investigate the death here May 4 of Mrs. Cora L. Britton with a view to determining whether action should be taken against the two physicians who have been accused of causing her death.

The two physicians, Dr. H. R. Street, of Washington, and Dr. Sherwood Ferris, of Chevy Chase, Md., are now free in $1,500 bail each pending hearing at Rockville, Md., Wednesday.

"The case already is under investigation by the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and any action they take we shall duplicate immediately," Fitzhugh said. "In the meantime we shall make our own investigation.

"If Drs. Street and Ferris are prosecuted in Montgomery County, as now seems likely, and convictions result, revocation of their right to practice in this State will follow immediately."

The doctors were arrested in Montgomery County after a coroner's jury in Baltimore accused them of "criminal conduct, gross malpractice and brutal treatment" in connection with Mrs. Britton's death after testimony was given that the woman had been treated by them for a supposed cancer by a salve called "a secret medicine which devours cancer."

Painting Unveiled At Foundry Church

"The Nazarene," painting of Christ by Col. Henry Stanley Todd, was unveiled last night in the Foundry Methodist Church, Sixteenth and Church streets northwest.

The portrait has created considerable discussion because of its interpretation of Christ as a Nordic type. It will be on view at the Foundry Church from 2 p. m. until 9 p. m. today, tomorrow and Wednesday. Charles H. Bloom, curator of the painting, will be present to describe the work.

A large congregation attended the unveiling last night. Justin Lawrie sang "Face to Face," as the church was darkened and the painting was unveiled. He was accompanied by Helen Burnham Eckman on the piano and Ruth Bronson Logan, violinist. The Rev. Frederick Brown Harris delivered a sermon in praise of the painting.

FARM RELIEF BILL AIDS DAIRIES FIRST

Wallace Drafts Trade Agreement Covering Milk Price in Chicago.

(Associated Press.)

The dairy industry was singled out yesterday to receive the first concrete benefit from the farm relief act as Secretary Wallace and George N. Peek, chief administrator, together plunged deep despite the Sabbath into their drive "to raise farm prices."

The first definite result hoped for by them from the act, signed Friday by President Roosevelt, will be a trade agreement covering prices of fluid milk supplies for the Chicago Metropolitan area.

It was reported yesterdey that most of the details have been worked out for an agreement under which the price of milk to farmers in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana, supplying the Chicago market, will be raised, and the price to the consumer stabilized at 10 cents a quart, a rise of 1 cent.

If the amendment, in its final form, meets with the approval of Wallace and Peek, they are prepared to enforce it by refusing licenses to minorities which refuse to observe its requirements. It was said that use of this power, however, is not expected to be necessary.

Wallace moved ahead in preparations for calling commodity meetings to launch programs for improving the prices of cotton, wheat, corn, hogs, tobacco and rice, all mentioned as basic commodities in the bill.

The first formal meetings will begin in about two weeks. In the meantime, informal conferences with representatives of individuals and groups interested in each will be held. A meeting with a group of cotton men has been set for today.

Cattle Disease Destroys Herds in Lincolnshire

London, May 14 (U.P.).—A mysterious cattle disease has destroyed numerous herds in Lincolnshire, reports said today. Farmers were alarmed at the malady, with which they said they had had no previous experience. It was evidenced by a dizziness as the only symptoms, followed swiftly by death.

A professor from Cambridge, experimenting, inoculated several herds with a special serum, and reported some success in checking the deaths.

First Flight With Air Mail Made 15 Years Ago Today

Old Army "Jenny" Took Off From Washington for New York via Philadelphia, Carrying 100 Pounds of Postal Matter.

Fifteen years ago this morning an old Army "Jenny," driven by a 150-horsepower engine and carrying 100 pounds of mail, left here for New York via Philadelphia, with President Wilson and Postmaster General Albert S. Burleson as spectators. That plane, the first used in transportation of mail, was capable of cruising at 75 miles an hour.

Today postmasters in cities in 44 States served directly by the Nation-wide air transport system, built around the air mail, are observing the fifteenth anniversary of the service.

Later in 1918 the Army "Jennies" were replaced with airplanes built especially for air mail work. The Washington-to-New York line served as a laboratory experiment in the development of the Nation's air mail transportation system.

In 1921 night flying was inaugurated, with the pilots volunteering to fly over unlighted airways with bonfires to guide them. The transcontinental service was inaugurated on a 34-hour schedule.

By 1924 some of the more important airways were lighted and night service was begun regularly. In 1927 the Government retired from the operation of the route and Boeing Air Transport, now a division of United Air Lines, was awarded the contract and became the first private transcontinental carrier of mail by air.

The development of air transport since the first scheduled flight fifteen years ago is evidenced by last year's operations of air mail passenger lines. They flew 33,733,000 miles, carrying 280,000,000 letters and approximately 500,000 passengers. The air mail is now flown over 26,893 miles of improved airways, practically all of which are lighted.

Many of the original pilots who flew on the old Washington-to-New York line are still flying on this and other routes. Lowell S. Harding, now division superintendent for Eastern Air Transport, then an Army officer, was in charge of maintenance and repairs on the original mail line. Eastern Air Transport now serves Washington, flying over the original route to Philadelphia and New York. The first plane into Washington was flown by Lieut. James C. Edgerton, now connected with the Department of Commerce.

SENATE WILL HEAR LOUDERBACK TODAY

Judge Certain of Victory in Impeachment Case; 50 Witnesses Called.

(Associated Press.)

Approximately 50 witnesses have been summoned for the Senate's trial, beginning today, of Federal Judge Harold Louderback, of San Francisco, on House impeachment charges involving his handling of equity receiverships.

Judge Louderback arrived here yesterday with his two attorneys, Walter Linforth and James M. Hanley, shortly after Chesley W. Jurney, Senate sergeant at arms, himself returned from the Pacific Coast, where he served more than two score subpenas.

"We are just as confident of acquittal as that the sun will shine again," Linforth said. "We expect to go into the merits of the case and have not the slightest doubt in the world as to the result."

May Last 2 Weeks.

The Senate will devote all of today to the case. Thereafter leaders hope to hold trial sittings in the mornings and legislative sessions in the afternoons. With this schedule they expect the trial to last nearly two weeks, perhaps longer.

It will be the eleventh impeachment case heard in the Senate's history. Three of these have resulted in guilty verdict, five in acquittals, and one in dismissal for want of jurisdiction; and one defendant—Judge George W. English, of Illinois—resigned before his trial could be completed.

Among those acquitted was President Andrew Johnson, accused of usurpation of the law in violation of the tenure of office act. The vote, taken on May 26, 1868, was 36 to 19, one less than the two-thirds required to convict.

Has Pleaded Not Guilty.

Judge Louderback already has pleaded not guilty to the five articles of impeachment voted by the House. He also contends that even if true the charges are not grounds for impeachment.

The first four articles, similar to indictment counts in ordinary jury cases, deal with his conduct of receiverships in the cases of the Russell-Colvin Co., a San Francisco brokerage house; the Lumberman's Reciprocal Association, the Fageol Motor Co., and the Prudential Holding Co.

The fifth article is an elaboration of the first four, and declares Judge Louderback so conducted himself as to bring "scandal and disrepute" to his court and "the administration of justice therein."

France to Study Railway Merger

Paris, May 14 (U.P.).—A plan for reorganization of French railroads, paralleling the efforts of President Roosevelt in the United States, will be considered by the Chamber of Deputies during the session opening Tuesday.

The plan, drafted by Minister of Public Works Joseph Paganon, includes consallidation of certain important lines, establishment of strict government supervision over all railways and possible regulation of competition between railways and motor transport.

In common with railroads in other nations of the world, the receipts and earnings of the French lines have dropped sharply since the depression began.

King George Recovered From Rheumatic Attack

Difit contended that the flowers had been given to him, and that he was running to take them home to his mother.

Stage Is Being Set For Public Works

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday readied himself to top off his domestic emergency reconstruction drive this week in a comprehensive proposal to Congress for employment and business stimulation through public works and industrial management.

Administration advisers who, Saturday night, proposed to him a manufacturers' tax of between 1 and 1½ per cent to underwrite the $3,300,000,000 public works program were inclined to believe he would approve it.

Another conference among congressional leaders, representatives of industry and labor and Government heads, is contemplated by the President in a move to bring unity before sending the measure to Congress today or tomorrow.

PRESIDENT CRUISES, SEEING FORT HUNT

Mrs. Roosevelt Takes Her Guests Ashore to Visit Mount Vernon.

(Associated Press.)

One of the Sunday excursions down the Potomac River that are becoming the custom with President Roosevelt was used by him yesterday principally for rest and relaxation. At the White House it was said he gave only casual attention to his immediate problem, the public works industrial control measure.

The President left the White House shortly after 11 a. m. and did not return until after dark. He and a party with him had luncheon and dinner on the Government yacht Sequoia, the latter meal ending just before the jaunt ended at the Washington Navy Yard.

At Mount Vernon, which is becoming almost a scheduled stop on the presidential river cruises, the boat docked long enough for Mrs. Roosevelt to show George Washington's old home to several guests. One member of the party, Mrs. June Hamilton Rhodes, of New York, left the boat there and motored back to Washington for an engagement.

The regents of the Mount Vernon Ladies Association were at the mansion and were taken aboard the yacht to meet the President.

As the Sequoia passed Fort Hunt, Va., where 1,200 bonus seekers are stopping as guests of the Government, there was a momentary halt, but no landing was made and Mr. Roosevelt remained in his chair.

Among those on board were Bernarr MacFadden, Mrs. Stanley Mortimer, Louis M. Howe, Stephen T. Early, Miss Marguerite Lehand, Capt. Walter N. Vernou, Mrs. Mortimer's youthful granddaughter, Marna di Zoppoli, and a playmate, Mary Holmes.

Dance Companion Sought in Slaying

Xenia, Ohio, May 14 (A.P.).—An unidentified dancing companion was sought tonight by police investigating the mysterious slaying of Mrs. Nora Coffey, 24, of Springfield, found shot to death in the Little Miami River near here.

Without other clews, the police started the hunt on the strength of the victim's friend, Mrs. Melvina Chapman, also of Springfield. The unidentified man, Mrs. Chapman said, took the girls to a dance Thursday night.

The three separated after driving about in an automobile for several hours early Friday morning, and the satin-gowned body of Mrs. Coffey, a bullet wound in the head, was found at 3 p. m., the same day by three small boys.

Beer and Optimism Reviving Swindles

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—The return of beer and "improved financial sentiment," the Better Business Bureau reported tonight have brought a marked increase in the activity of swindlers.

An announcement said the bureau had received complaints which indicate "the erstwhile tipster sheet operators and security charlatans are not losing any time in taking advantage of the changed public attitude" on investments.

Among the brewery stock promotions, the bureau said, were "some with little chance of successful operation and others whose shares are being sold by misrepresentation."

8 to 8 He Ate

12-Hour Food Marathon of 406-Pounder Is Completed in Triumph.

Jacob (Tiny) Williams, 406 pounds, of Chester, Pa., complained he could not get enough to eat so the Penny Cafeteria at 638 D street northwest decided to help him appease his appetite.

Yesterday at 8 a. m., on the dot, Tiny firmly seated himself at a table in the show window and cleared his throat for a heroic effort. At 10 a. m. a beam of gratification lit his chubby features; at noon he sighed for pure joy. Pork chops, beefsteak, French fried potatoes and coffee vanished down his ample gullet as the afternoon hours rolled by. Into the twilight and darkness he continued to amuse the crowd that had gathered. Finally at 8 p. m. Tiny fell back in his chair with a satisfied grunt. The miracle had happened; for once in his life Tiny had looked on a hot dog without longing.

His menu for the day follows:

Breakfast—One-half pound of bacon, 18 eggs, 4 portions potatoes, 4 bowls cracked wheat, 3 oranges, 2 grapefruit, 5 cups of coffee, 5 rolls, 1 quart milk, 1 quart chocolate milk.

Lunch—Two pounds steak, 1 pound French fried potatoes, large tomato salad, 2 cups of coffee, 4 bottles of soda water, 1 quart of ice cream, 3 bottles of milk, 1 quart strawberries.

Dinner—Five pork chops, 2 hot dogs, 1 portion potatoes, spinach, salad, 2 cups of coffee, 1 bottle of milk, 2 dishes ice cream, dish of jello, 2 ice cream sandwiches.

CORPORATION DEBTS UP BY 150 PER CENT

Much of Gain Since Before War Incurred During Boom Years.

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—American corporations—industrial, financial and public utility—were reported tonight by the Twentieth Century Fund to have increased their long-term debts more than 150 per cent since the prewar years.

The report was compiled in connection with the fund's investigation into the Nation's internal indebtedness by four economists—Dr. Wilfred Eldred, economist of the National Transportation Committee; John Bauer, director of the American Public Utilities Bureau; Dr. G. C. Means, of Columbia University, and George Galloway, former economics assistant to Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

Increase in Boom Years.

It reports a disproportionate part of the great increase in debts occurred during the boom years of 1921 to 1929, during which financial and industrial corporations piled up debts at a much faster rate than ever before.

In spite of this increase, however, the findings show a wide variation in the capacity of debtor companies to meet their obligations—ranging from the larger industrial corporations and public utility operating companies, whose debts were said to present no great difficulties even now, to the street and steam railways and public utility holding companies, comparatively large numbers of which were reported to be in serious difficulties or to have defaulted.

Judge in relation to the value of assets, the report said, the debts of industrial corporations as a group are most amply secured, with the public utilities most heavily burdened.

Extent of Indebtedness.

The long-term indebtedness of industrial corporations—including companies in the field of manufacturing, mining and construction—was placed at $10,500,000,000, approximately one-fifth of plant investment; public utility operating companies, $11,200,000,000; public utility holding companies $2,000,000,000, with the obligations representing less than one-half the book value of plant investments.

Railroad obligations were set at $13,300,000,000, one-half book value of rail properties.

Financial corporations, including life insurance organizations, investment trusts and real estate companies, were said to owe long-term debts totaling $27,000,000,000.

Between 1921 and 1929 industrial corporations were reported to have expanded their long-term commitments by 111 per cent, while railroads increased their borrowings only 6 per cent.

Carnegie Report Shows Slump in Law Students

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—A drop of 15 per cent between 1928 and 1931 in the number of law students in the United States and Canada was reported tonight in a "review of legal education" by the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching.

The loss in numbers of students was 6,980. Since 1931 there has been a further drop of 2½ per cent, the report said.

armaments as provided in the treaty of Versailles.

Furthermore, the chancellor will sharply reject charges made public at Paris last week that Germany is arming secretly. He is expected to issue a warning that Germany will disregard any form of an ultimatum, as hinted in the French and English press.

Accusation of France.

Hitler probably will assert Germany's innocence on charges of being responsible for the present deadlock in the Geneva arms parley, declaring her innocence is demonstrated by Berlin's acceptance of the British arms readjustment plan, with "reasonable reservations," as the basis for the arms committee's discussions.

A flat charge that France is to blame for the arms deadlock possibly will be made in this report on the Geneva proceedings, for which Hitler suddenly summoned the adjourned Reichstag to convene Wednesday.

Hitler blames France because of her refusal to discuss limiting her heavy armaments, and will, no doubt, declare that Germany is the victim of maneuverings of the other power designed to "falsify the German stand."

Hitler also may emphasize his contention that the United States proposal to scrap heavy armaments is the best way in which the arms meeting can be saved, holding that the best move to restore confidence would be for all the nations at Geneva to agree to retain only defensive weapons.

Evangelist and Soldier Here To Attend Baptist Sessions

Elder Wells Played Part in Abolition of Canteens in Army.

When the Southern Baptist convention convenes here Friday one of the interesting figures who will take a prominent part will be Elder Frank M. Wells, 72, world-traveled evangelist, author and soldier of fortune.

Elder Wells, a Baptist preacher for more than 50 years, here to attend his twenty-second Southern Baptist convention, went to his first convention in 1883 at Waco, Tex., at the age of 22 years. To get to the convention he saw and rode on a train for the first time. While here he will reacquaint himself with five other persons who attended that meeting.

Born of Confederate parentage in Hamburg, Ark., Elder Wells was graduated from Union University, Moody Institute and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

During the Spanish-American War he served as a captain and chaplain of the First Tennessee Regiment, borrowing $200 to take the trip that carried the regiment to Ilo-Ilo on the Island of Panay. He was wounded four times in line of duty.

When mustered out of service he came to Washington to report conditions in the Philippines to President McKinley and the House Committee on Military Affairs. His reports were instrumental in the removal of army "canteens" from the islands. He described the canteens as "saloons."

While here he lectured in the Garfield Memorial Church and later toured 16 foreign countires, lecturing on prohibition and the Bible. When he returned to this country he wrote for religious publications on his experiences abroad.

At the close of the convention here Elder Wells, with three assistants, will begin another evangelistic campaign in the Southern States.

TECHNICIANS REPORT ARMS CUT FEASIBLE

Forgotten Group Brings In Report That May Save Geneva Parley.

Geneva, May 14 (U.P.).—A forgotten technical committee of the world disarmament conference has brought forth a report which may save the conference from failure, it was revealed tonight.

This committee, after 130 plenary meetings in secret, has submitted a report to Chairman Arthur Henderson proving that limitation of armament budgets is possible.

The United States delegation, however, entered a blanket reservation against the principle of budgetary limitation of arms expenditures. The United States was only infrequently represented at the committee's sessions.

The German, Italian and Japanese delegations also made reservations opposing any application of the principle for at least four or five years. Great Britain's attitude was not clearly defined.

It is predicted, however, that these delegates will accept some cut in armament expenditures as a means of saving the "face" of the conference if a general agreement to limit guns, armies, tanks, airplanes and navies proves impossible.

The world is spending about $5,000,000,000 annually on armaments. The conference may conceivably agree to cut this burden by 10 to 20 per cent. An indirect limitation of armies, navies and air forces would be thus obtained.

The report of this body, the technical committee of the budgetary commission, is 420 pages long. The delegates found, after examining the armament expenditures of 29 countries, that it was possible to get a "model budget" which would make practicable the limitation or control of all expenses for military reasons. Their mathematical table is said to be about 90 per cent foolproof.

GREEN ANNOUNCES FIGHT ON PAY CUTS

Labor Head Calls Federal Wage Slashes "Stupid and Senseless."

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared in an address today that organized labor would "fight with its back to the wall" in the next political campaign for restoration of the 15 per cent reduction in the wages of Federal employes as symbolic of its opposition to pay cuts generally.

Speaking at a protest meeting sponsored by the New York Federation of Postoffice Clerks, Green termed the Federal cut "senseless and stupid" because he said it curtailed purchasing power.

The labor leader advised workers in private industry to "strike out and fight with all their might" if necessary for wage increases to keep pace with inflation prices.

Students' Spiritual Crusade Predicted

Akron, Ohio, May 14 (A.P.).—A definite turn in the tide of spiritual affairs in American colleges, Bishop Ira D. Warner, of the Pacific area of the Church of United Brethren in Christ, said today, has resulted from the students' weariness of popular cynicism and sophistication.

Bishop Warner spoke at the thirty-first quadrennial session of the general conference of the church.

"There is coming a finer idealism in the hearts of the student generation," he said. "I believe we are due for another spiritual crusade in the very near future."

Harper was one of a party of four Washingtonians motoring to Norfolk to spend the week-end. As their car rounded a curve it was sideswiped by a produce truck, said to have been driven by R. R. Deakle, of Miami, Fla. The car crashed through a guard rail and plunged down a ravine.

John Peretti, 21, of 518 Third street northwest, an occupant of the car, suffered a crushed arm and Frank T. Snow, of 908 Eighth street northwest, and Blanche Simmons, of 405 Massachusetts avenue northwest, cuts and bruises.

requested to mobilize their men pending further orders. A portion of the company is standing by in the Auditorium tonight, but officers said they were given no intimation as to where they would be ordered.

Danville, Va., May 14 (A.P.).—National Guard officers here disclosed tonight that they had received orders from the adjutant general to be on the alert for orders to aid civil authorities at an unannounced point in case of trouble, which was "not anticipated."

The orders were issued to the 246th Coast Artillery and to a tank crew.

It was believed here that the orders were issued in connection with a strike of workers at furniture plants in Galax.

MINISTERS PROTEST MOTHERS' EVICTIONS

"Sentimental Poetry" Laid Aside by Agreement in New York Sermons.

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—An agreement of Manhattan ministers not to quote "sentimental poetry about motherhood" in their sermons today, but to demand that the roofs not be taken from over the heads of thousands of New York City mothers facing eviction this month was disclosed by Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick this morning.

"This is Mothers' Day, on which we ministers are commonly supposed to speak with lovely sentiment about motherhood," the preacher said, speaking from the pulpit of the Riverside Church, built largely with funds contributed by John D. Rockefeller.

"The stern fact is, however, that in this supposedly civilized city thousands of mothers are facing eviction this month. Private charity has broken down, the city government has broken down, public notice has been given that no more money is available to save mothers and children from eviction, and in consequence a flood of dispossess notices already have been let loose.

"Thousands of mothers, therefore, on Mothers Day are facing the imminent loss of even shelter for their children. Nothing can save them, so far as I can see, except an overwhelming public demand that in this emergency the city government simply must not break down.

"Tammany Hall has devastated the finances of the city for many years of civic debauchery, extravagance and corruption, but it always has claimed that it took care of the poor. Let us hold Tammany, at least, to that.

"On Mothers Day, ministers by common consent are not quoting sentimental poetry about motherhood, but are unanimously demanding that thousands of mothers in this city shall not be evicted."

BONDS TO FINANCE NEW 5-YEAR PLAN

Workers Invited to Buy Part of 3,000,000,000 Ruble Soviet Securities.

Moscow, May 14 (A.P.).—The Soviet government announced today the issuance of a 3,000,000,000 ruble loan to finance the beginning of a second five-year plan.

Labeled "The loan of the first year of the second five-year plan," the issue, which matures in ten years, is the largest single domestic offering in the history of the Soviet union.

The loan will bear interest at 10 per cent annually and carries an optional lottery feature for those who do not desire the straight interest provision.

Although it is emphasized that all subscriptions will be voluntary, all the workers and employes and collective and individual peasants are "invited" to buy bonds in a sum equivalent to three weeks' earnings.

The new loan increases the Soviet government's financial indebtedness to its own population to a total of 9,000,000,000 rubles since the start of the first five-year plan. Six billions in bonds were sold to finance the first five year plan.

Farley Says Country Trusts Chief Executive

New York, May 14 (U.P.).—President Roosevelt does not seek dictatorial powers, nor is Congress weakly surrendering its constitutional rights and duties, Postmaster General James A. Farley said today in an address before U. S. customs workers.

"The country," he said, "has no fear in turning over broad powers to the President. It knows that the time for hesitation, deliberation and debate has passed and that the time for action is at hand—action for all of us instead of special privileges for some of us."

Herriot Pictures Hope for Support

Marseille, France, May 14 (A.P.).—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, speaking here today on his recent talks with President Roosevelt at Washington, pictured French hopes for American support against any aggressor in "these troubled hours" of dictatorships.

M. Herriot cited the recent discussions between President Roosevelt and Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's special envoy, as "seeming to confirm the capital interest" of Mr. Roosevelt's agreement that protection should be denied to the state which traffics with an aggressor.

The former premier of France emphasized "the essential importance" of what he termed the American President's decision to support article 16 of the League of Nations covenant which provides a boycott against an attacking power.

MERGING LOCAL BANKS.

Announcement that four of Washington's banks are to be merged in one strong institution is most gratifying. The local banking situation is improving, with another installment payable today to one bank and the conservators of others reporting progress in liquidating assets.

This tendency toward consolidation is impressive. Most of the smaller institutions realize the difficulties of maintaining a banking business on a sound footing with limited capital and resources under present conditions. Large banks are able to fortify themselves more adequately against extraordinary demands and adverse business trends. They can mobilize all of their resources at any point of danger and thus avoid difficulties that frequently beset smaller institutions.

Organization of a new bank including four of the banks now in the process of reorganization or liquidation will facilitate the release of funds which have been tied up since the banking holiday. The new institution will doubtless inspire confidence and draw new deposits, thus removing the immediate demand of depositors for their money that is now unavailable. Instead of liquidation there will be restoration of credit and a normal flow of funds.

Bank directors, stockholders and depositors are to be congratulated on the intelligent cooperation they have manifested in this project. Their efforts will doubtless redound to the benefit of Washington as a community as well as to themselves. It is fortunate indeed that the adverse consequences of the banking holiday have been turned into an undertaking of this kind.

THE IMPOTENT HOUSE.

With the passage of the independent offices appropriation bill by the House, a vicious legislative practice comes once more to prominent attention. Buried in this measure are important statutory changes that have no place in an appropriation bill. Yet they were railroaded through without the slightest consideration.

Included in this bill are three provisions of vital importance to Government employes. One would subject faithful and efficient public servants to dismissal after they have completed 30 years in the Government service. It would destroy the merit system just at the point where it should function most clearly. A second provision would deprive hundreds of capable employes of their jobs merely because they happen to have come to Washington from certain States. Both of these provisions break faith with Government employes who took their present jobs with the understanding that they would be rated on the basis of efficiency. The third provision would allow departments to furlough employes for as long as 90 days to avoid outright dismissals.

It is difficult to believe that members of Congress are disinterested in matters of such vital importance to the Government service. Yet these measures were neither read nor discussed in the House. Even if they had been discussed, there would have been no opportunity to amend any one of them. By such procedure as this the House stultifies itself.

Any legislative body with 435 members must have strict control in order to function. But there is no occasion for destroying the legislative process, as the House is doing. Its members are not permitted to pass judgment upon legislative matters of serious import. Great omnibus bills must be swallowed without any attempt to analyze or perfect them. By such tactics the House is not aiding in the formation of an intelligent reconstruction program.

BLACK SHIRTS IN ENGLAND.

Great Britain, conservative and democratic as it is, has not entirely escaped the Fascist movement. Sir Oswald Mosley has long been the head of a small band formed in imitation of the Black Shirts of Italy. Since the first of this year the organization has witnessed a remarkable growth, and it now claims a membership of 500,000. While the principles of the British Fascists do not follow all the more radical tenets of similar organizations on the continent, particularly those of Germany, the organizations have some common bonds, and Sir Oswald led a band of his Black Shirts to Italy to participate in the recent Fascist celebrations.

The attractive feature for many young recruits is the usual one of defense troops, with a semi-military organization. Formed for the ostensible purpose of maintaining order at their campaign meetings, this type of organization appeals to many who would not be attracted primarily to an ordinary political club. While not an outright military force, nevertheless the membership is strongly opposed to every form of Communism, and training in troop formation contemplates forcible opposition of radicals if it becomes necessary. While men who saw service in the war are counted among the English Fascist ranks, its principal appeal is to the younger generation.

Sir Oswald and his associates disclaim any sympathy with the ruthless tactics of some who operate under that name. Their aim is to bring about governmental changes through education, but with the slight suggestion that the British Fascists will be prepared to use force as an eventuality if it should become imperative. Their attitude toward the present system of government is that it is leading Britain to chaos and disaster, and their hope is to take over and remodel the system on Fascist lines.

THE MILK INQUIRY.

The Senate has before it a resolution to inquire into the milk situation in Washington. Senator King, chairman of the District committee, offers the resolution, after having become convinced that a combination is in control of the majority of milk concerns and is charging excessive prices.

The investigation made by The Post has developed facts which can not be ignored. Washington consumers are forced to pay more for milk and cream than other consumers in large cities. No substantial reason has yet been advanced to justify this excessive charge. The milk producers contend that the stringent inspection law imposes extra burdens upon them, resulting in increased cost; but the milk furnished to Washington does not seem to be superior to that furnished to other cities at a lower price.

The King resolution should be adopted by the Senate and a thorough investigation made to determine whether or not the consumers of milk are in the grip of a monopoly operating under the very nose of Congress.

EQUITY FOR VETERANS.

At the request of President Roosevelt the Veterans' Administration is making a restudy of benefits to be paid disabled war veterans under the recent economy act This move ought not to be misinterpreted. The President has promised no relinquishment of the terms in his executive order fixing the new allowances. A review will be made to see whether or not the cuts in allowances to veterans actually injured in war service "have been deeper than was originally intended."

If any injustice has been done by the regulations worked out by the Veterans' Administration it should be corrected by all means. It is not to be supposed that such far-reaching changes in the pensions system could be made without imposing hardships upon some deserving veterans. The new system of payments has not been rigidly fixed and will not be until it has proved equitable in actual practice.

Veterans' organizations may perform a valuable service by devoting their energies to adjustments that will be fair to all groups of ex-servicemen, without trying to break down the economy act. The country has no desire to escape the burden of caring for its war-disabled veterans. Even under the economy act those veterans will receive far more liberal treatment than the soldiers of any other country. It is the business of the Government to see that these war-maimed veterans are given just and equitable relief.

Widespread efforts may be expected, however, to impair the new regulations and to move back toward the unfair system that has been in effect in recent years. Even during the war Congress set out to handle veterans' relief on a scientific basis. But pressure was applied by different groups, concessions were secured by first one faction and then another, until an incredible welter of veterans' benefit laws had been enacted. Dole-seeking veterans will find it far more difficult to impose upon the President than it was to impose upon 531 legislators on Capitol Hill. But many will not fail to try.

It will require a great deal of resolute courage and determination on the part of the Veterans' Administration and the White House to maintain the reformed pensions system intact, with adjustments to correct obvious inequities. Every veteran whose pension is reduced or eliminated will probably feel that he is being discriminated against. It is the problem of the Government to put veterans' allowances on a basis of unquestionable equity, while maintaining rigid control of the whole system for economy purposes.

ON TO PEIPING.

Japan is apparently determined to occupy Peiping and Tientsin, thus taking control of all northern China. The Japanese army is within 50 miles of the ancient Chinese capital; the Chinese defense forces have apparently crumbled, and the invaders may march on to Peiping without any formidable opposition. It is by no means certain, however, that China's historic city will be occupied immediately. The Japanese are pretending to act in self-defense. No doubt they will delay for some further provocation before invading Peiping and Tientsin.

The fate of these two cities was virtually sealed when the Japanese government withdrew its objections to further invasion of China proper. Tokyo officials tried to restrain Field Marshal Muto when he was securely in possession of the great wall. But he has been anxious to push on into China, on the pretense that irregular troops have been annoying his army. It has now been announced in Tokyo that further movements of the army are being left to the discretion of Field Marshal Muto, who, by the way, is Japan's ambassador to Manchukuo.

Where will the invading Japanese army stop? Japan herself is finding it extremely difficult to answer that question. She first gave assurance that her troops would occupy only those local sections of Manchuria where her interests were in jeopardy. But the army moved on to Tsitsihar, Chinchow and Harbin. When it became evident that the League of Nations was in a quandary as to what action it should take Japan invaded Jehol. Peiping and Tientsin are apparently marked for occupation as definitely as were all of these other strategic points. Japan does not know where to stop her invasion. Wherever her outposts may be set they will be continuously attacked by Chinese troops, and the tendency will be to push farther on to crush Chinese opposition.

It seems almost incredible that Japan will undertake to occupy more of China, but the ambitions of her military leaders seem to have no limits. Japan is encouraged by the continued inactivity of the League of Nations. The League procrastinates—involves itself in red tape while this crisis grows daily more disturbing. If the capture of Peiping would stir the League to action on this vital issue, it might serve a useful purpose. The League must ultimately take issue with Japan or permit the world to be embroiled in another war.

SOUTH AMERICAN WARS.

One out of four of the active South American belligerents has finally declared war. Paraguay, after fighting with Bolivia in the Gran Chaco for nearly a year, has declared that a state of war exists. On the battle front it has made little difference. Attacks and counter attacks continue to occur in the tropic wilderness, with a succession of victories claimed by one side to be as regularly denied or belittled by the other. Paraguay hopes to gain advantage by her latest move in shutting off Bolivia's free access to the Pacific through Chile, but no steps have yet been taken by Chile in this direction.

The formal action at Asuncion has again aroused the League of Nations to consider intervention in the dispute, with talk of sending a commission to the seat of trouble. The neighboring nations, Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru, which have been striving to effect a settlement between the contestants, following the failure of the five-power efforts in Washington, will renew their activities, now that a more definite phase of the Chaco conflict has been reached.

Meanwhile more cheering news is heard regarding the dispute on the upper Amazon over the Colombian port of Leticia, seized by Peruvians last fall. The new president of Peru is in consultation with a Colombian representative at Lima in an effort to adjust differences. Another proposal has also been forwarded from Geneva looking to control of the disputed territory pending arbitration and final adjustment of the matter.

Secretary Ickes has changed the name of Hoover Dam to Boulder Dam. There will be plenty of opportunity to select fancy names by future administrations before the dam is finished.

Gaston Means has hard work to keep up with European governments in explaining how difficult it is to explain the real situation.

When a President knows just what he wants and a Congress doesn't know anything about anything, the result is rapid progress.

The bonus lads can't understand why the President, when they ask for a handout, should offer them jobs.

The Wall Street boys firmly believe in the inflation of stocks, but they also believe in timely taking of profits.

A 15-minute bus line will keep the inhabitants of Fort Hunt in liaison with Fort Bonus.

BUILD UP THE NAVY

From the Milwaukee Journal.

America has long had it on the books to build the Navy up to the strength of the Washington and London treaties. We fought for that privilege for eight years and we assumed treaty obligations which presupposed that we would take advantage of it, once we had won it.

For one reason or another, we have never got around to the undertaking. Peace conferences have been almost continually in the offing and we have feared others would charge us with bad faith. Lately the deterrent has been economy.

We did build some cruisers, after England and Japan ran so far away from us that we had to make an effort to catch up. In the auxiliary fleet, however, we have let matters drift until we are not only far below the naval effectiveness of Great Britain but there is serious question whether our fleet is even on a par with the Japanese.

Now an opportunity offers itself. It seems to be a settled policy that we shall undertake considerable public construction as a relief program. Then why not build up the fleet? That is a good deal better than constructing some of the unneeded postoffices which have been proposed.

Chairman Vinson of the House Naval Affairs Committee, a most thorough student of our Navy, is of this opinion. And he is backed by Secretary Swanson. They propose that as a part of the relief program the Navy be authorized to construct over a period of years twenty destroyer leaders and destroyers, four submarines, four light cruisers and two aircraft carriers.

There are ships we shall have to build sometime. Why not construct them now when public money is to be voted for something? We have not a single destroyer leader to match the fine destroyer leaders that other first-class navies have. We would be putting money into ships that are necessary to maintain the fleet strength.

This would not be to violate our stand for naval limitation. It would be to back up that stand. The very essence of the Washington and London treaties is that naval peace shall be promoted by maintaining a fixed ratio which would stabilize naval strength and police the ocean. We said that was what we wanted. Now let's do our share to make it successful.

WEALTH.

Wealth is friendship tried and true.
Wealth is joyous, happy hours,
Strength the daily tasks to do.
Wealth is trees and birds and flowers.
Wealth is tender sentiment,
Peace of mind and heart's content,
All man's senses and his powers.

Wealth is beauty to the eye,
Stars at night and silver beams
Of the soft moon in the sky;
Music made by rippling streams.
Wealth is faith and courage bold
And the loyalty to hold
Fast to all man's nobler dreams;

Wealth is all the countless things
Memory prizes down the years;
That sweet comfort friendship brings
When our eyes are wet with tears.
Gold is but a minor part.
Wealth is of the mind and heart,
Gracing all our hopes and fears.

The Scientist Killed by Radium Died That Others Might Live.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IF your mind rejects the idea of a Creator and assumes that the universe began and developed by itself, you must regard all religions as superstitious nonsense.

But if your mind accepts the existence of the universe as sufficient proof of a Creator, as the existence of a machine argues the existence of a machine-maker, simple logic should enable you to clear away the mysteries that now close your mind to the religion of your race.

If there was a Creator, with power to form matter and life and energy and the laws that control them, He must exist today. The planets still travel their ordered way; the laws still function.

If the Creator still exists, and His power is unchanged, the laws that govern the universe are still subject to His Will. The power that can make a law can unmake it—else the creature is greater than its Creator.

If the Creator can change or set aside His law—the law we call "natural"—He can raise up a man to save the world in a crisis.

Then why doubt the divine origin of Jesus, the Savior of mankind, whose teachings have directed the destiny of the race for 2,000 years?

Perhaps you can believe in Him, and yet your reason is offended by the assertion that His sacrifice on the cross was necessary to save mankind.

You can't conceive of an offended God, determined to have some kind of blood sacrifice, and willing to spare sinful men only on condition that Jesus die in their place. Your reason rejects the idea that a just God would require the blood of an innocent to appease His wrath at the guilty.

Is that it? Well, look at it in another way.

A king has seven sons. Six of them tire of his authority and take up arms in open rebellion. He could send an army to slay them, but he desires their love and loyalty—not their death.

To win them back he sends his seventh and youngest son with a message offering forgiveness. This youngest one knows he will be regarded as an enemy and killed before his identity is discovered. Yet he goes willingly, to please his father and save his brothers.

His sacrifice is necessary, for there is no other way to deliver the message. He dies that others may live. He gives himself as a ransom for many.

Where, then, is the mystery? The hero who gives his life for others pleases God, but not because God desires his death.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Child Labor Gaining.

Houston Post.

The revelation by Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau at Washington, that child labor is on the increase, particularly in sweat shops, can scarcely have any other effect than to create new sentiment over the Nation for ratification of the child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution.

That amendment was submitted to the States a number of years ago, and only a few States ratified. A determined fight on the proposal was made by conservative interests of the country, on the ground that it violated State's rights and invaded the province of the home. Interest in ratification dwindled, and it became generally believed that the proposal was lost.

The last year or so has seen a revival of favor for the amendment. The depression has been instrumental in bringing the change in sentiment. Since times became "hard" more and more children have been sent forth by parents to work in order to aid in making a living for the family. In many instances the children are the only members of the family who are working.

Justice to Deserving Veterans.

Kansas City Star.

The decision by President Roosevelt and his advisers on veterans' affairs to take immediate steps to review the recent executive order, under which drastic reductions in compensation and pensions were to be put into effect, is a wise move. There is no question that the President's order would have caused much hardship to deserving veterans and widows and orphans, and a more careful consideration of the problem unquestionably should lead to a prompt change in the ratings.

Bewildered Guide.

Los Angeles Times.

While not inclined to take issue with Secretary Hull, who says that destiny points to the United States to lead the world out of the present economic crisis, it might be well for Uncle Sam to devote a little preliminary effort to getting caught up on his "home work."

Let the Army Engineers Alone.

Kansas City Times.

It is again proposed, as it was in the Hoover administration, to transfer the direction of rivers and harbors projects from the War Department to the Department of the Interior. Would such a transfer be wise?

The work of Army engineers on rivers and harbors has been exceptional, wholly free from or unsusceptible to political influences such as would be brought to bear on one of the political departments. Army engineers are highly qualified. Also they are able, through such service, to contribute conspicuous service to the country in times of peace. If they should be withdrawn, their places would have to be taken by a civilian staff, with the added cost involved, while no corresponding assignments would be given the Army engineers.

Are We Defaulting?

Cincinnati Enquirer.

The United State will have a weak case in seeking the war debt payments due from year to year if it defaults on its own bonds. But refusal to pay interest on Liberty and other Federal bonds at gold parity amounts to default, at least in the case of foreign holders. This week the Treasury has refused to license exports of gold for payment of such interest. If this position is maintained, and there is no indication of the Government's intention—then we must acknowledge that we have defaulted to the extent of 15 per cent.

There are precedents for either policy. France, when she reduced the franc to 20 per cent of its prewar gold value, defaulted to the extent of 80 per cent. That was in 1926. Great Britain, however, in the last 18 months has paid in gold the interest on Government obligations, although that meant paying a premium of 30 per cent in terms of sterling. Recently French cities have followed the British practice, paying interest in gold to American holders, although they could have paid in dollars at a saving of 15 per cent.

MR. RIVERA AND MR. ROCKEFELLER.

(Diego Rivera, Mexican artist, has been dropped by Radio City for including a picture of Lenin in his murals.—News item.)

Mr. Rivera—You don't seem to grasp the artist's viewpoint, Mr. Rockefeller.

Mr. Rockefeller—And the completeness with which you grasp mine is something less than uncanny, Mr. Rivera. The idea of putting Lenin in Radio City! Tcht! Tcht!

Mr. Rivera—Didn't you see my sketches when you hired me?

Mr. Rockefeller—Yes, didn't you?

Mr. Rivera—I told you in the first place that I intended to include a picture of a great public leader.

Mr. Rockefeller—You didn't tell me it would be Lenin.

Mr. Rivera—Can I help it if you didn't ask me?

• • • •

Mr. Rockefeller—When a man comes into one of our oil stations for ten gallons of gas, we don't do an overhauling job and change his radiator ornament. What would you think if Ed Wynn, after signing up on a gasoline program to play the Perfect Fool, put on Rasputin and the Empress?

Mr. Rivera—I didn't intend putting Lenin in the mural at first. He just developed.

Mr. Rockefeller—Well, you can't use Standard oil for a developing fluid, Mr. Rivera.

• • • •

Mr. Rivera—What's your objection to Lenin? Don't you think he looks good in oil?

Mr. Rockefeller—Cooking or painting?

• • • •

Mr. Rivera—Lenin is the outstanding public leader of the last century.

Mr. Rockefeller—Even if I thought so, you could hardly expect me to dedicate Radio City to his memory. It strikes me as a little absurd to think of me as paying real money to glorify Red Russia. You wouldn't put Hitler in a mural for the B'nai B'rith Temple, would you?

Mr. Rivera—I never can tell what I will do until I get warmed up.

Mr. Rockefeller—To avoid confusion you should never start with a cold motor.

• • • •

Mr. Rivera—But, Mr. Rockefeller, I contend that a capitalist has no right to interfere with a man's art.

Mr. Rockefeller—Let me put a question in all fairness? If Stalin hired you to do some Moscow murals, would you expect him to be pleased if you stuck in a picture of my father?

Mr. Rivera—Don't be silly.

Mr. Rockefeller—It is just possible that's what Stalin would tell you.

Mr. Rivera—There is no use arguing. Your mind and mine don't work in the same channel.

Mr. Rockefeller—Channel, Mr. Rivera? You're trying to pull me into the Red Sea!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Protests Against Encouraging Bonus Agitators to Come to Washington.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Plans for a convention of Communist bonusites to meet in Washington a week hence are disconcerting, to say the least. Responsible veterans' organizations have sought to discourage a bonus march on Washington, and plans for such a useless trek are carried forward only by radical groups, most of which are avowed Communists. For the administration to encourage this group to come to Washington establishes a policy that may become extremely embarrassing.

There are several difficult aspects of the situation. Only the delegates to be selected by the radical groups are to be entertained by the Government. Other veterans who come here to demand benefits from Congress must take care of themselves. Veterans who cling to American traditions in spite of their longings for payment of the bonus can not help resenting this apparent discrimination. Thousands of veterans who would like to come to Washington and be entertained by the Government may be denied that privilege because they are not Communists.

There is no assurance that the proposed convention will put an end to the prospective bonus siege. Resentful veterans may flock to Washington to prove that the radical element is not the only group which would like to have the bonus paid. In this way the present plans may actually stimulate futile attempts to intimidate Congress.

It would be well to consider also whether this policy of housing and perhaps feeding large groups of petitioners who come to Washington can be extended to all groups. The Capital would be overrun by destitute individuals if the Government should make a practice of sponsoring "conventions" of this kind here. Can the Government deny to one group of unemployed and disgruntled men a privilege that it grants to another? Experience in the past has shown that every march on Washington encourages others. It would certainly put the administration in an unfavorable light if it should extend help only to veterans tainted with Communism.

All mass movements of citizens to Washington for the purpose of influencing legislation are futile, if not dangerous. Why should the administration encourage mass lobbying against its own policies?

Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

His Own Earnings.

WHEN a child earns money, whether through working for a member of his family or for an outsider, he has the right to do with it exactly as he pleases.

Any authoritative attempt to interfere with the way he chooses to spend it he will quite properly resent as unjustified. Except under unusual circumstances he will feel that it is unfair to expect him to spend it on things which in the natural course of events his parents should provide for him.

Any effort to help him to dispose of his earnings wisely must be made with the greatest tact. He must feel that you are in no sense attempting to dictate.

It may help if you try to put yourself in his place. Would you like to have some one tell you that you had to spend your money a certain way?

If you give advice, give it only as advice and be sure that he knows that you know he has a perfect right to do as he wants.

Perhaps taking him into your confidence at this time as to the family income and the family budget will make him value his earnings in a realistic way and spend or save them sensibly.

In this situation, as in so many others, treating him as if you thought he had good judgment and a grown-up point of view makes him respond in the way you hope.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

They say this is the house on which to demonstrate renovizing but many Government employes express the suspicion that the ten executive departments soon will be housed in this structure if all the economy threats and Secretary Roper's reorganization program are carried out. Of course, under the arrangement there would not be room for all the independent offices under this one roof of the house that economy wrecked.

PLEASANT surprises and evidences of high esteem marked the closing officials days for Mrs. Annie L. Hammack (*), a clerk in the Division of Publications, Agriculture, who, on Friday, concluded a period of more than 30 years' service as one of the "faithfuls" in Uncle Sam's great organization. It is her intention to live seasonally in Florida and Atlantic City, N. J.

Mrs. Hammack has enjoyed an enviable record as an employe and during her long service was never known to be tardy. She held the position of clerk in charge of the "remittance" desk, where money for the purchase of public documents is daily received. This assignment requires a meticulous exactitude for details. The receipts passing over her desk aggregated as high as $5,000 annually. During the many years she attended to this work there was never known to arise any question as to the accuracy of her records. She is possessed of an unusual temperament—one which served her in excellent stead in official life, as she was able to get along readily not only with her immediate associates, but as well to neutralize any untoward situation harmoniously.

MRS. HAMMACK was an honor guest at luncheon Friday noon and that evening a committee, consisting of Mrs. Annie Dooley and Mrs. Alice Myer, called at her home and presented as a testimonial from her associates a traveling bag. In addition to these recognitions, Mrs. Hammack received a letter of commendation signed by several supervisory officials. Those who sponsored the commendatory letter were: M. S. Eisenhower, director of information; Dr. M. C. Merrill, chief, Division of Publications; Frank D. Smith, assistant chief; F. J. P. Cleary, in charge of distribution section; and F. L. Zimmerman, an assistant.

The Federal Diary entertains the hope that released from the exacting duties of her office, she may enjoy leisure to her own satisfaction, and often contemplate that in her official career she rendered outstanding service and enlarged her circle of friends.

LITTLE TRAGEDIES.

JOHN NOONAN, now of Chicago, but for many years a clerk in the Indian Service, Interior, is about the city. He looks hale and hearty. John met rambling Swarmi Fedd Friday accidentally and, in the exchange of conversation, he let it be known that in 1930 he was one of the "selective" for outside occupation—a condition which appears to be in waiting for many in the Federal employ, if rumors and rerumors are to be accepted at face value. John was somewhat philosophic about his "let out" and concluded "it was all a part of a political move." Since 1930, he said, "I have been without employment."

After inspecting the course at Indian Spring where the Federal Diary's first annual golf tournament will be held May 25, Government employes will be convinced that the entire ground presents an uphill battle, with the terrain sloping up toward each green except one, a challenge to beginner or seasoned player.

The lone exception to uphill green approach on the course is No. 8, par 4, of 387 yards. The tee shot is blind with an out-of-bounds to catch a hook. It is the hole with the green approach downhill, a fine hole for any player.

The United National Association of Postoffice Clerks protests the policy of retiring Government employes by any method which will make such retirement in any degree compulsory prior to the automatic retirement age now stipulated in the law, says President Thomas F. Dolan.

Compulsory retirement, without regard for age, will remove from the service many faithful employes who are still capable of efficiently filling their assignments. Federal employes still rearing and educating their families, also endeavoring to liquidate financial obligations which they assumed with the understanding that they would be continued in the Federal service until reaching automatic retirement age, feel that they should not be embarrassed by unexpected and premature retirement which will necessitate breach of contracts which may not be voided."

OLD DOMINION BANK CHARTER IS SOUGHT

Arlington Application Will Be Forwarded to Richmond Official Today.

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The application for a charter for the Old Dominion Bank will be forwarded to the State Corporation Commission today. This action was authorized Saturday night at a meeting of the committee representing the depositors of the People's State Bank of Cherrydale. It is the purpose of the committee to perfect a merger of the old bank with the new, with an entirely new board of directors and officers, all of which will be selected by the depositors.

John Locke Green, independent candidate for the General Assembly of Virginia, declared yesterday that one of the greatest evils with which the people of Virginia are faced is the utility problem. They are beginning to realize that the only adequate way to secure reasonable rates is by owning these units themselves, he said.

Danville, Va., with a population approximately the same as Arlington County, has owned its light plant since 1886. In 1931, with a rate lower than that charged the people of Arlington County and Alexandria City, it paid into the general fund of the city treasury more than $400,000 as a net profit derived from the sale of electricity. This fund was utilized for school and other purposes, he added.

While the Civic Federation of Arlington County, in conjunction with the county utility commission, is doing good work, it is doubtful whether they are going quite far enough, Green declared. To illustrate, he said:

"No matter which private corporation may be induced to bring its lines into the county, and by contract for rates that would be entered into, the State Corporation Commission, under our recent decisions of the Court of Appeals, does have power to vitiate such contract, notwithstanding, any clause in the contract that the maximum rate shall not exceed a given figure. The commission can raise these rates. The Court of Appeals holds that the State has never surrendered its power to control utility rates."

Yeggs Flee Before Overtime Policing

An attempt to rob the postoffice and Wells Drug Store at Riverdale, Md., Saturday night was believed yesterday to have been interrupted by the presence of a town officer who decided to work overtime.

The front door of the postoffice, the safe of which has been blown several times, was found yesterday morning to have been broken. About the same time it was discovered the drug store had been entered, but nothing taken.

A check on the time the breaking must have taken place, after the places were closed, showed them to be approximately the time that Officer Daniel S. Hertzog was cruising through the vicinity on his motorcycle. Hertzog had decided to work overtime to make up for the absence of his co-worker, Officer Walter Adkins, who is away for several days. The robbers, it is believed, were frightened by the sound of the policeman's motorcycle.

Keeping Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHOOPING COUGH ANTITOXIN.

THERE are signs that whooping cough may be approaching its end as an important menace. As matters now stand the disease, while very unpleasant and annoying, causes no serious trouble except in babies less than 3 years of age. While it has a moderate prevalence among older children and occasionally attacks an adult, it rarely endangers life or leaves any organic disease as an after effect among older children and adults. The story is different with babies. When it strikes in that age group, it is apt to cause pneumonia, to upset nutrition, to interrupt growth, or to cause death.

As diarrhea, summer complaint, cholera infantum and other forms of digestive disturbance in infants become less important steadily year by year, whooping cough and its coworker, measles, move toward the head of the column. The stage is set for the control of measles. Physicians and health departments have all the war machines they need. It is true what they have could be greatly improved, but even now they are good enough to do the job. What is needed is to have these instrumentalities come into general use.

The whooping cough war lags somewhat. The tools are a little less well developed. However, there are some promising developments. A laboratory method of diagnosing the disease has been worked out. A few physicians are using it and reporting satisfactory results. The health department of Copenhagen makes use of this diagnostic method. It is official with them. The Illinois department of health has been trying it out for a few years. A vaccine to be used as a preventive has been developed. One physician with a large practice among children has reported favorably on it.

Dr. J. H. Bailey, of Chicago, reports that he has found an antitoxin which cures it. All antitoxins have a limited power as agencies of prevention. They can be used for that purpose when quick action is necessary. The protection they give does not last long. This antitoxin of Dr. Bailey's is made by the injection of large quantities of virulent whooping cough germs into large roosters. After a while the rooster is bled and the blood is used as the source of the antitoxin.

It is greatly to be hoped that other physicians will find Dr. Bailey's antitoxin as effective as it has seemed to be in his experience. It is also hoped that the experience of others may confirm that of Dr. Bailey that the antitoxin does not cause serum sickness nor do harm in any other way. And lastly, there is the hope that some animal larger than a rooster may be found available as a source of supply. Antitoxin from so small an animal would probably always be costly.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHEN Gene Dennis comes to the RKO-Keith Theater as an extra stage attraction on Friday, Washington amusement seekers will be privileged to examine this remarkable and widely discussed young woman's powers at first hand. That they are extraordinary powers, free from all taints of trickery and chicanery, is pretty thoroughly established, for Miss Dennis has enlisted the interest of such scientific minds as Prof Einstein's in environments and under circumstances remote from the theater.

Gene Dennis

Miss Dennis, it appears, is not a mind reader, in the accepted sense. Rather is she, in the truest meaning of the term, a clairvoyante, a high priestess of divination, who tells her subject facts far removed from that subject's concentrated thought at the moment.

She does not pretend—or so I am told—to interpret the thoughts of those who consult her for aid in solving their problems; indeed, it is seriously to be doubted if she knows whence comes the impulses that impel her to make the uncannily accurate surveys and forecasts that she does.

It seems to be necessary only that Miss Dennis have some visible or tangible contact with her subject—having him in view is enough, or the sound of his voice—even over the telephone—or possession of some intimate article of his ownership and use—a watch, knife, ring, anything personal and tangible. This contact established, the answers to the subject's questions extend far beyond anything that might reasonably be expected of a mere "mind reader."

For instance, I was told recently of the case of a woman in a theater audience who arose in her place—Miss Dennis works without blindfold, with the house lights on, and insists on seeing those who seek her help at public performances—and asked if she would marry the man with whom she was at that time keeping company.

"No; you will not," replied Miss Dennis, calling the woman correctly by name, although no name had been mentioned, "and you know you will not as well as I do, and for the same excellent reasons. The gentleman in question is a victim of tuberculosis and is now at Saranac Lake. In the letter you received from him this morning he told you * * *," &c.

These, it was later ascertained, were absolute facts. The only communication from the subject Miss Dennis had had was the simple question, "Will I marry the man with whom I am now keeping company?" Nothing had been said of tuberculosis, Saranac or a letter.

It is important in any contemplation of Gene Dennis' amazing gift to note that she employs no blindfold, no crystal globe, no mechanical apparatus and no confederates of any kind. It is, however, necessary that some one pass through the audience to direct her attention specifically to the questioner and to repeat the questions, it being a common failure of the average member of any audience that he can not make himself heard on the stage.

My present understanding is that Manager Hardie Meakin, of RKO-Keith's, will himself serve in this capacity during Miss Dennis' local engagement—which is in itself sufficient assurance of the absence of any professional accomplice.

Miss Dennis, in short, at the age of 21, is one of the wonders of the scientific world. We are fortunate in getting a first-hand demonstration of her miraculous gift.

It will be of prime interest to those who followed the competition that marked the conduct of the third annual Music Week Festival at Loew's Fox Theater last week, as well as to the participants, that the prize awards to the winners will be made on the stage of the Fox tomorrow night at 8:45 o'clock. All of the winning groups will be present on the stage at that time.

It just goes to show the way things break in the theatrical profession. I mean what has happened to Donald Woods, leading man of the National Theater Players.

Things being at best a gamble in the profession, and especially in times like these, it exceedingly behooves any good trouper to grab his contracts when and where he can. So Mr. Woods, provident against the day of the coming of the wolf to the door, not so long ago signed a contract to go to the Elitch Gardens Stock Company in Denver, Colo., upon the close of his present engagement at the National. So what happens?

So along comes an agent of Arthur J. Beckhard, producer of both last week's "Goodbye Again" and next week's "Another Language," offering Mr. Woods a contract to play the Osgood Perkins role in "Goodbye Again" with the New York company, Mr. Perkins having to relinquish the part soon to fulfill a motion picture contract.

Here would have been the big chance on Broadway, following so eminent a star as Mr. Perkins on the merit of his performance of the same part with the Nat. Players last week. But could Mr. Woods accept the offer? He could not! The Elitch Gardens contract was a contract, and that was that.

Show business!

Frank Braden, in-our-midsting over the week-end as harbinger of the combined Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus, coming to town to show under canvas on Wednesday and Thursday, May 31 and June 1, tells one on himself that will bear repeating.

The immaculate and polished Mr. Braden, one of the better publicists, on Easter Sunday, it seems, made it easy for the feature writers in New York by escorting Mu Prao, one of the giraffe-necked young ladies from Burma, who are this season's supreme feature with the show, to divine worship at St. Patrick's Cathedral. For Mr. Braden it was all in the day's work. For Mu Prao it was an event that took on an exaggerated importance and a promise of future Sabbaths of spiritual solace under the benign guidance of her attentive and handsome escort.

Mr. Braden, I suspect, is not addicted to too-regular performance of his churchly duties. But Mu Prao, of course, could not know this, not having known Mr. Braden, man and boy, for quite so many years as some of the rest of us have. So it required several Sundays of being left waiting at the tent to go to church, for Mu Prato to tumble that she was being more or less permanently "stood up" by this desirable but deceptive young man. And now she will not even speak to him.

Every time Frank enters her presence, Mu Prao stretches that beanpole neck to its greatest altitude and will have none of him—which, somehow, reminds me of Shaw's "The Adventures of the Black Girl in Her Search for God," although I don't see quite why it should, for Mu Prao certainly had not even come close in Mr. Braden!

And, boy, do you look funny in that straw hat!

Italian Air Fleet's Landing Arranged

Boston, May 14 (A.P.).—Four Italian naval vessels sailed out of Boston harbor today for St. John, N. B., en route to Labrador where they will establish a base for the Italian air armada flying to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

Several thousand Italians gave the "flotilla," which consisted of two submarines and two sloops, a roaring sendoff.

The vessels have been docked at the Navy yard for the last ten days, and officers there said that fully 50,000 persons visited them.

NATS SPLIT WITH CHISOX, 10-8, 11-9; END TRIP

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

En Route Home With Nats.

JOE CRONIN led his bedraggled forces out of the West tonight with six victories, five defeats and three injured infielders to show for their efforts.

The Nats face their 20-game home stand starting Tuesday with the prospect of a patchy infield. Buddy Myer is slated to return to second base, but Ossie Bluege is still nursing a painful charley horse and Bob Boken is at present incapacitated by a spike wound on his heel. Boken will probably be the first to recover. Word was received from President Clark Griffith, at Washington, that he had exercised his 24-hour option on Cecil Travis, who has been playing a bang-up game with the Chattanooga Lookouts, and he probably will get the call in case Boken is not yet ready to return to the game at third when the home stand opens Tuesday against the Cleveland Indians.

The even break in the doubleheader today, after they had lost the first game, saved the Nats from a sad fate on their first Western invasion. The only consolation to be gained from their tour, besides the enlightening play of Bob Boken, is the fact that the Nats' 6 victories and 5 defeats was a better record than either the Yankees or the A's could compile in the Western sector.

Turning back through the pages of the score book, it is revealed that Manager Cronin himself, batting in the clean-up position, has been of very little assistance to the Nats after the first two games of the Western tour. Cronin has made only 7 hits in the last 38 times at bat.

One of these days some pitcher is going to work out there on the mound with a white glove, the color of the ball, and gain a tremendous psychological advantage over the batter besides adding deception to his delivery. The idea is Cronin's.

If Manager Lew Fonseca decides to return to first base for the White Sox, he will do so at his own risk. The way Red Kress has been covering the bag and winning the plaudits of the fans, Fonseca may not find a receptive public.

Al Simmons can do no wrong in Chicago. They applaud him when he makes the easiest catches and give him a big hand when he returns to left field after ending the inning with a weak grounder to th infield. But, of course, such stuff will wear off.

The Nats have made no runs for Whitehill in two starts. But the inning after he left the first game they connected for three. He may have a kick coming.

Boken was a forlorn figure out there on third base when the Sox made three runs on three hits down his way in the first inning of the opener. But the way he has been winning ball games for the Nats, the fellow who could hold Boken's work today against him, is the same fellow who would send home a Mother's Day telegram collect.

With Dave Harris on third base, Joe Cronin was taking all throws to that direction from the outfield. Dave is a nice, likeable fellow, but you never can tell what he may do with a thrown ball.

The first two innings of the second games consumed 50 minutes and 30 seconds, and the correspondents trying to make a 6 o'clock train. But their hopes brightened when languid Sam Jones was pounded from the box.

880 Over U. S. to Qualify Today for '33 Golf Open; 38 Ready for Manor Test

Hard Battle Is Seen for Five Places in This Sector.

144 or 145 Believed Good for Medal, 149 to Place.

Nation's Players to Seek to Be Among 118 at Chicago.

Mackenzie Is Entered for Trial Rounds as Is McCarthy.

By DAVE HERMAN.

GOLFERS from five States and the District of Columbia—37 professionals and a lone amateur—will mobilize this morning at the Manor course in Norbeck, Md., to battle for the five places awarded this sector in the divisional qualifying rounds for the National Open championship.

Thirty-six holes will be the ordeal, with the first half of the grind billed to start at 9 o'clock, and the concluding half five hours later. Billy Molloy, red-haired assistant pro at Columbia; W. C. Schreiber, of Baltimore, and Tom Hudgins, new Woodmont pro, will be the first to whack the ball down the fairway. At five-minute intervals other threesomes will follow.

Washington pros, determined to

NEW YORK, May 14 (A.P.).—Over the fairways of 20 courses—North, South, East and West—880 amateurs and professionals will trudge tomorrow, seeking 118 places in the National Open golf championship, to be played June 8, 9 and 10 at Chicago.

Thirty-three positions at Chicago already are filled by the players who finished among the first 30 and ties in the 1932 open. Most of the country's leading shot-makers, including Champion Gene Sarazen, are among those exempt from tomorrow's 36-hole qualifying test, but nevertheless a number of well-known golfers will have to take their chances with the rest.

Horton Smith, named to the 1933 Ryder Cup team, will be one of a field

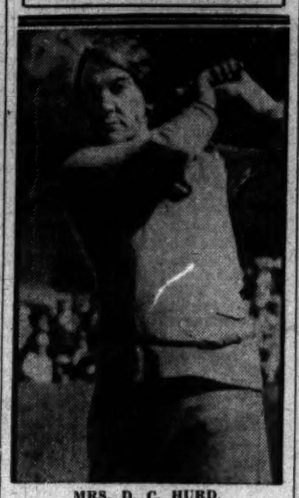
Has Record 79



MRS. D. C. HURD,
who broke the women's mark at Manor yesterday while leading a Philadelphia team to victory over a District of Columbia star aggregation. Mrs. Hurd has three national titles to her credit.

79 at Manor Scored by Mrs. Hurd

Record Round Helps Philadelphians Triumph.

A WOMAN golfer, who won her first national championship in 1909, repeated the following season, and was rewarded for a patient wait fourteen years later, flashed into the spotlight again yesterday at the Manor course and startled the gallery gods with a record smashing score of 79.

She was none other than Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of the famous Merion Cricket Club, who led a powerful platoon of Philadelphia feminine stars to victory over the District golf team in the final day of the annual competition. The Quaker City team triumphed, 10 points to 5, and for the two-day event outdistanced its opponents by 30½ to 11½.

Mrs. Hurd's 79, 8 above men's par, created a furore at the club, and was the big talk among the women golfers all day. It clipped several strokes off the lowest score ever recorded by a faminine player at Manor. Playing with Frances Williams, of the St. David's Club, first day's star, Mrs. Hurd was the potent factor in defeating the home stars, Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, of Columbia and Mrs. Hume Wrong, of Chevy Chase, 5 points to 0.

Hits Her Stride

On Last Nine.

The former national champion's score might have been several shots lower had it not been for a few bad breaks on the first nine which she negotiated in 42. Crossing the road she began to hit her stride, birdieing the twelfth and canning a curling 15-footer on the eighteenth for her par to enable her to crack 80. Mrs. Hurd's 37 for the stretch was only two above par, and was one over 4s. She drove the ball for alarming distances, and her adroitness in pitching and approaching drew much applause from the gallery.

Jane McCullough, of Huntington Valley, turned in a sparkling 81, and her partner, Edith Quier, of the same club, clicked off an 83, the same score turned in by Frances Williams, of St. David's. Miss McCullough and Miss Quier collaborated in defeating Mrs. Hugh Nicholson and Mrs. B. C. Hartig by 3 points.

Mrs. Nicholson

Gets 86.

Mrs. Nicolson shot an 86, and Mrs. Haynes an 87. Virginia Pope, of Kenwood, with a 92, and Virginia Williams, of Congressional, with a 91, the two junior stars, beat Miss Eelanor Wilson and Mrs. Helen Schoff, 2 points to 1, while Miss Susan Hacker, of Chevy Chase, and Mrs. J. W. Beller, of Columbia, won all 3 points in the match with Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Garthwaite.

The District women's team will

Third Baseman

who is proving quite a handy man for the Nats. With Bluege and Boken both injured, he played third in the double-header with the Chisox yesterday. And among his three hits was a nobby home run.

Tribe Regains Lead; Beats A's Twice

Hildebrand Wins 5th in Row in Scoring 3d Shutout, 3-0.

Indians Rally to Cop Second, 5-3; Cochrane Homers.

CLEVELAND, May 14 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians moved back into possession of first place in the American League today by taking a double-header from the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 0 and 5 to 3.

Oral Hildebrand registered his fifth consecutive victory without a defeat and his third shutout of the season in the first game. Clint Brown marked up his fourth win in the second game.

Cochrane's Home Run

In Vain.

In the fifth inning of the first game singles by Cissell and Morgan, a sacrifice by Kamm, and a single by Averill gave Hildebrand a chance to drive in two runs. The Indians added another in the sixth.

In the second game a home run by Mickey Cochrane, bringing in Coleman, who had singled, tied the score at three runs in the seventh, but in the next inning Cleveland rallied to score twice. An error by Higgins and a squeeze play worked by Kamm were responsible for runs by Burnett and Averill.

13,000 See Red Sox And Tigers Divide

Detroit, May 14 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox crashed through with a five-run rally in the ninth inning today to win the first game of a double-header, 6 to 1, then kicked away the second game with six errors, 3 to 2, although Detroit got only five hits.

Ten man batted for Boston in the ninth inning of the curtain-raiser, sending Tommy Bridges to the showers. Rick Ferrell, late of the St. Louis Browns, got his third hit of the game while Werber, just acquired from New York, batted in one run with a single. Jolly got a home run in the fifth inning.

Four of the Sox' six errors figured in the Tiger scoring in the second game.

Harris, Kuhel and Goslin Register Circuit Clouts In Wild Orgy of Base Hits

NO PROGRESS

First Two Innings in 1st Game Too Much for Washington.

Whitehill Loser and McAfee Winner as Series Closes.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

CHICAGO, Ill., May 14.—A couple of slug-nutty ball teams battled to a draw this afternoon. The Nats took it on the chin in the opener, 10 to 8, when they could not weather a 6-run storm in the third inning, but they came back in the second game and staggered to the final bell with an 11-to-9 decision that gave them an even break with the White Sox for the day. Thirty thousand customers got their fill of base hits.

The Sox were still swinging at the finish of the twin bill and threatened to knock Bill McAfee's four-run lead out from under him in the ninth inning, but Alvin Crowder pitched to Appling, the last batter, retiring him on a fly to Manush and limiting the damage to two runs at a time when anything could have happened, according to the trend of the day's events.

Big leads today were about as safe as a perforated parachute. The Nats burrowed up from underneath in the opening battle and all but wiped out a nine-run lead, and the Sox were threatening throughout the second game to erase the seven runs the Nats scored in the first two innings.

Home Run Honors

To Nats.

The Nats won all the home-run honors, although they could get no more than a draw. Dave Harris and Joe Kuhel smacked a ball apaice into the stands in vain in the opener, and Goose Goslin connected in the second game when it seemed that the Nats might need it.

The Nats were suffocated under a 9-run lead in the first three innings of the first game, but before the battle was over they gave a few convulsive gasps that sent Manager Fonseca on an inspection of his relief pitching talent. But what were the White Sox doing with a 9-run lead so early in the game? Earl Whitehill, Ed Linke and some very patchy third base work by Bob Boken can explain that.

The Sox got three runs in the first without hitting a ball out of the infield and in the third they hung up six more and wrapped up the ball game as far as the final result was concerned.

Boken was as shaky on third today as he was brilliant yesterday, and when Manager Cronin recalled that he had suffered a spike wound by Catcher Charley Berry in the ninth inning yesterday, he was sent to the bench in company with the injured Ossie Bluege, and Dave Harris, the handy man, was stationed on third in the second inning.

Harris' Drive Scores

Three Runs.

Harris figured to drive in a few more runs than he let in, and he justified this prediction in his first two appearances at the plate. He knocked all shut-out notions out of Ted Lyons in the fourth inning with a home run that scored the Nats' first three runs and he drove in the fourth run with a single in the sixth.

In the seventh, with three on base, Harris struck out.

Joe Kuhel attempted to put the

Giants Crush Pirates; Tie For Lead

Parmelee Has Best of Hoyt in Duel; Score Is 5-1.

NEW YORK, May 14 (A.P.).—The Giants climbed into a tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates for the National League lead today by winning their third straight game from the Buccaneers, 5 to 1. The victory gave the New Yorkers a record of seven games won and four lost in their home stand against the Western clubs.

Leroy "Bud" Parmelee, rookie right-hander, bested the veteran Waite Hoyt in a fine mound duel, giving Pittsburgh only six hits, two of them by Paul Waner. He struck out six.

The game was close up to the eighth inning with the Giants leading, 2 to 1, through a first inning rally. Then they cut loose and put the game on ice with three more tallies.

The big inning started with Mel Ott's double. Johnny Vergez drew a walk and Blondy Ryan smacked a single into center. Freddy Lindstrom let the ball go through his legs for an error and all three runners scored before he recovered it.

New York's first inning tallies came from Joe Moore's single, a three-bagger by Hughey Critz and Sam Leslie's fly. The Pirates scored in the fourth on a hit by Lindstrom, followed by a pass to Pie Traynor and Gus Suhr's single.

The last five innings were played in a driving rain.

Reds Trample Cubs In Twin Bill, 5-3, 1-0

Cincinnati, May 14 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds trounced the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 3 and 1 to 0, in a doubleheader today and crowded St. Louis out of third place in the National League race.

The Reds piled up all their runs in the first three innings to win the first game, but the second developed into a pitcher's duel between Lon Warneke and Si Johnson, which Otto Bluege broke up in the seventh with a double that drove in the winning run. It was Bluege's second hit of the season.

BROKER'S TIP'S POOR PREAKNESS RACE LAID TO INJURY

Derby Winner Out Until Fall

Popped Osselet to Be Treated Throughout Summer.

Ease of Head Play's Victory Surprises Turf Fans.

BALTIMORE, May 14 (A.P.).—Col. E. R. Bradley's Broker's Tip, which ran last Saturday in the Preakness after winning the Kentucky Derby a week ago, probably will not run again before next fall.

William Hurley, assistant trainer for the Bradley stable, said today the flashy colt had popped an osselet and would have to undergo treatment that would preclude any further participation in races during the summer.

The injury was given as the reason why the Bradley entry, after staging such a brilliant finish in the Derby to beat Mrs. Silas B. Mason's Head Play, ran so poorly Saturday. Head Play romped to victory in the Preakness four lengths ahead of W. R. Coe's Ladysman, in second place, and 30 lengths ahead of the unfortunate Broker's Tip. The Wheatley Stable's Utopian was in third place.

Horse Appeared Normal At Race-Time.

Hurley explained today that the popped osselet was discovered several days ago, but in the workout Friday, Broker's Tip appeared to be in normal shape. The fever had gone and the colt ran in good style.

Not until the race was already underway, he said, did Jockey J. Smith discover his mount would not respond to urging. At the five-eighths post the jockey struck Brokers Tip to make him speed up, but was unsuccessful in getting more speed.

"He's the kind of a horse that always jumped when he was struck," Hurley said.

Racing fans today continued to express surprise at the ease with which Mrs. Mason's colt captured the $26,850 Preakness prize. While he was four lengths in front of Ladysman, he did not appear extended.

Mrs. Mason had predicted last week after the Derby that "things will be different in the Preakness," but few had believed that Head Play would have an uncontested finish. At that, however, Head Play was the marked favorite among the 40,000 attending the race at Pimlico.

Mrs. Mason and her husband did not get to see the entire race. They had taken a stand in the crowd near the finish line, "just for luck," and were unable to catch a glimpse of the speeding thoroughbreds during the time they were on the back stretch.

Head Play's next appearance probably will be in the Wood Memorial, at Jamaica, next week.

DEAR AL: PIMLICO RACE TRACK, MAY 14.

Seven jockeys who have ridden Preakness winners saw the Maryland classic yesterday. Sonny Workman and Louis Schaefer saw the race from the saddles of Ladysman and Kerry Patch, respectively. Willie Doyle served as a patrol judge. Clarence Turner, Charlie Peak and Louis Morris were spectators. It took a 40,000 crowd and the Preakness to bring out a band for the first time during the meeting. A few Preakness days would get the track out of the red. Only three more days and then Bowie. Wait for Bowie! Where have I heard that crack before? BILL.

FIRST RACE—PRECURSOR has some fast trials as a recommendation in this juvenile dash. Gets my call. INSPECTION carries the top weight of the party, but is the one to beat. BILLIE'S TRYST is on the improve and may finish fast to take the show.

SECOND RACE—RISNEUR ran a powerful race yesterday after being practically left at the post. If sent back I'm not looking elsewhere for the winner. CRUISING and GRAMARYE will battle it out for the other money positions.

THIRD RACE—GEORGE JESSEL turned in one victory over the local umps and appears to have the edge on this field. SID for the place. If there is a major upset, I look for CURTAIN CALL to be the principal.

FOURTH RACE—MEXICO needs only to muscle his way out of the also eligibles to take this purse. MECAT was turned loose here and tired right at the finish. May stick it out tomorrow. CORDOBA for the show end.

FIFTH RACE—SUE JONES was a hot tip the last time and barely missed taking a purse. Might not find the going so tough in this. ALLANAH won here and is dangerous. BRIGHT BIRD is far down the list, but may figure high if he gets into action.

SIXTH RACE—ROCK POINT is speedy on occasions and must beat SILVERDALE to take this purse and I believe that will come to pass. BLACK TARGET ran a promising race the last time and may figure in the money tomorrow.

SEVENTH RACE—I named TUFFY G. recently and he was third. Just possible that short price scared them off. Looke like a $15 mutuel to me tomorrow. ZEMBLA'S last was a beaut. The one to whip. GARLIC ran a good race yesterday.

EIGHTH RACE—RUANE is on the improve as those recent efforts indicate. Gets my call over BUB MFARLAND. BIDE A WEE may make the top pair hustle.

Phoenix Beaten Twice By Annapolis Tossers

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 14.—The Annapolis Athletic Club baseball team won a double-header from the Phoenix A. C., of Washington here today by scores of 6 to 5, and 6 to 1 The second contest was only seven innings by agreement.

Loose fielding marked the opener, the Annapolitans getting a little better of the breaks to win by a one-run margin. The night cap was marked by sharper fielding by both teams, more timely hitting being the determining factor in the result.

A home run drive by Bill Townsend of the locals, with the bases loaded in the third stanza featured this fracas.

Ballston Firemen Win Over Unionists by 7-6

Venerable Lem Owen left his cane-and-wheel chair long enough yesterday afternoon to relieve Dixon in the sixth and pitch Ballston Fire Department to a 7-6 victory over the Federal Unionists, snapping the latter's erstwhile six-game winning streak.

Owen blanked the Federals during his stay on the mound and in the ninth the Unionist infield blew up, bobbling sufficiently to allow drives by Jones and Thornet to push over the tying and winning tallies.

War College tossers triumphed over the Denton A. C., from Fort Howard, by a score of 5-4 yesterday. Vallate led the winning attack with four hits in as many trips to the plate.

Davis Faces Marshall On Mat

To Offer First Half of Double Feature Thursday Night.

TWO of wrestling's fair-haired boys, Carl Davis and Everett Marshall, will merge their respective talent in staging the first half of the double-feature with which Joe Turner is winding up the winter's mat business at the Auditorium Thursday night.

But the second portion of the bill, Dick Shikat and Frank Speers will eclipse the former in fan-interest. Jumping from the Curley to the Londos circuit, Shikat evidently had in mind a match with the loop's leading man at the ball park. This bout with Spears will be a starter.

Spears learned quite a bit about football at Georgia Tech, where he was a star linemen, and rather than adapt himself to wrestling tactics he continues to rough it up as much as possible. But whether his unorthodox method of grappling will enable him to survive Shikat's cunning remains to be seen.

Ed Brockman, the Baltimore gent who officiated at the Ernie Dusek-Londos bout last week, remarked that he would like nothing better than to see Shikat step into the ring with the Greek. In Ed's opinion it would be a great bout and he isn't so sure Londos would win. Brockman has worked innumerable matches with Shikat and proclaims him the most scientific artist in the game.

George Zaharias and Eli Fischer tangle in the first preliminary. They will be followed by Dr. Ralph Wilson and John Katan. The main preliminary brings "Chief" Chewaki up against Vic Christy.

MAKING good a prediction that his club will have to be reckoned with when it comes time to crown the 1933 Capital City League champion, Wee Willie Glascoe yesterday piloted the Griffith-Consumers to a 5-2 victory over Certified Barbers in the first game of the series for the two. Approximately 1,500 fans crowded around the South Ellipse diamond to see the Griffs spring the first major upset of the year.

In the other two games played St. Joseph's shut out Waltz Photographers, 3-0, and Congress Heights routed the Federal A. C., 10-4.

Bob Lyons was given rather feeble support by his teammates, but Bob himself was none too strong as the Griffs picked up thirteen hits between the first and final innings. George Hough led the attack with a single, double and triple, driving in three runs.

Fred Pool Hurts His Finger.

Fred Pool started for the winners, but retired in the fourth with an injured finger after allowing only one bingle. Bill McQuinn, who relieved him, yielded but three hits, two off the bat of big Jack Caspar.

St. Joseph's and Waltz battled through the nine closest innings of the day before the Plaza aggregation finally bagged the verdict. Magee held the Photographers to six hits, none within speaking distance of another, and whiffed nine. Mackey, his opponent, was nicked for eight safeties, but St. Joseph's bunched them in the fourth and fifth innings to score the winning runs.

Cinotti, with two out of four, doubles by Noone and Hessler, and Howard Mann's healthy swat that went for three bases were the telling factors in the Saints' triumph. Until the fourth inning, it seemed that Mackey would not only hold his opponents scoreless, but hitless as well.

Seven Runs Made In Seventh.

For six and a half innings the Federals offered stout resistance to Congress Heights, but the home team opened up with a barrage of hits in its half of the seventh that netted seven runs and put the verdict in moth balls. "See" Sweeney was outstanding with his fielding and batting. The veteran flyhawk connected safely three of the four times he went to bat.

Loeffler's fielding was a redeeming feature of the Federals' play.

TECH MEETS EASTERN TODAY

Tilt to Have Bearing Upon Outcome of Title Chase.

TECH makes its first real bid for the 1933 interhigh school championship today at Eastern, where it stacks up against the home team in a game that will have an important bearing on the outcome of the race.

Unless plans originally announced for the game Friday, which was rained out, go awry, Eddie Turner will hurl for the Maroon and Gray with either Joe Sullivan or Francis Cleary opposing him. Of course, Charley Guyon may cross up the dope and start Cecil Hale, but no change had been announced early today.

Chances for Title Are Brighter.

Tech's chances of winning the title are much brighter this year than they have been for some time. Exclusive of pitchers, the club is well fixed for dependable material. Turner is the lone moundsman who appears to be capable of going the full distance. Waverly Wheeler and Knocky Thomas are the big guns in an attack that may blast Eastern's title hopes this afternoon.

Tomorrow Roosevelt and Western meet with the primary motive of keeping out of the cellar. Western is charged with two defeats and Roosevelt one. Friday brings up the game that will definitely decide the championship hopes of Tech and Central. A Blue and White victory would just about end the race. The same applies to a Tech triumph unless it bows to Eastern today, and then a triple tie will be likely.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

COMING as it does on the eve of a possible reallocation of broadcast facilities as a result of international conferences and agreements at Mexico City, the Supreme Court decision in the case of Station WIBO, Chicago, vs. Federal Radio Commission, must be regarded as of unusual significance. Also, this decision will, in all probability stimulate the filing of applications by stations from underquota States for the facilities now being used by stations in overquota States.

A brilliant array of counsel participated in the case. Duke M. Patrick, then general counsel of the Radio Commission, argued it in the Court of Appeals. When that court reversed the opinion, he took the matter up with John Lord O'Brian and Solicitor General Thacher, at the Department of Justice. Among the counsel who were at one time or another engaged in the procedure were Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, the late Levi Cooke and Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania.

The decision of the Supreme Court in the Chicago case is of far-reaching importance to broadcasters and to the public generally. It is the first case arising out of an appeal from a decision of the Radio Commission to the Court of Appeals of the District to be reviewed on the merits by the Supreme Court and is decisive of two fundamental questions. First, that under the radio act the Supreme Court has jurisdiction to review the decisions of the Radio Commission in such cases, and, second, that the equalization requirements of the Davis amendment are reasonable and valid enactments.

The facts of the case decided were substantially as follows: Station WJKS, located at Gary, Ind., applied to the commission for use of the frequency then and previously used by Stations WIBO and WPCC, located in Chicago. Both Indiana and Illinois are located in the fourth zone, Indiana being 22 per cent underquota, and Illinois 55 per cent overquota, in station assignments. The commission ordered the application of Station WJKS be granted and Stations WIBO and WPCC deleted.

On appeal the Court of Appeals reversed the decision, and the Supreme Court reversed the Court of Appeals and upheld the commission's original decision and order.

Congratulations are being offered to Ralph Atlass, one of the owners of WJKS, for fighting the case through to the highest court. Ralph spoke softly, as he usually does, but he carried a big stick.

"Memories Hour," a new program by the Navy Band will be heard over WRC at 10 o'clock this morning. The Marine Band will be heard through the same station at 3 p. m.

THE President has known them for years but tonight the listening public will have a chance to become acquainted with Marvin McIntyre and Stephen T. Early, presidential secretaries, who will be heard over WMAL at 9:30 o'clock.

They will be interviewed by George Durno, of the International News Service, and Martin Codel, of Broadcasting Magazine, are crossexaminers. In view of the fact that both "Mac" and "Steve" were former newspapermen Durno and Codel have promised to make the interviews as painless as possible.

Principal speakers at the Coast Guard Academy graduation, at New London, will be Rear Admiral H. G. Hamlet, commandant of the Coast Guard, and L. W. Robert, jr., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. The program, which will be broadcast over WRC at 1:30 p. m., also will include music by the Academy Band and singing by the Cadet Corps.

The Radio Section of the Nordica Mandolin and Guitar Orchestra, led by Walter T. Holt, has just broadcast its 250th consecutive concert from local radio stations. This represents one, two and sometimes three programs each week since June 6, 1929. There are fourteen players in this group, and the orchestration comprises first and second mandolins, mandolas, mandocellos, mandobass and guitars.

O. F. SCHUETTE, of the National Association of Broadcasters, already engaged in battle with the American Society of Composers over the license fees charged for the use of copyrighted music by the latter, has taken up the cudgel for small restaurant owners using radio sets in their establishments.

"Although the society gave a formal promise to Congress a year ago that it would make no effort to collect royalties from small restaurants and other minor business establishments, an ASCAP campaign to exact such license fees is now going on in various part of the United States. Broadcasting stations have sent me copies of the threatening letters received from the society by restaurants that have radio receiving sets," Mr. Schuette declared.

He then gave the text of letters said to have been sent out by the society recently by which it has sought to exact license fees from restaurants for use of sets.

"To secure protection, restaurants and others who receive such threatening notices should present the matter to Chairman Sirovich, of the House Patents Committee," Mr. Schuette said.

"Or they should ask their senators and representatives to call the situation to the attention of the Department of Justice or the Federal Trade Commission. Both of these Government departments are now investigating the ASCAP organization and its methods."

Conrad Thibault, young barytone, will begin his first starring network series with Ferde Grofe's orchestra over WRC at 7:45 p. m.

"Ingomar," a famous old German melodrama in five acts, the translation of which was first produced simultaneously at the Bowery and Broadway Theaters in New York on the night of December 1, 1851, will be revived by the Radio Guild Players this afternoon at 3 o'clock, over WMAL.

The National City Christian Church choir will be heard over Station WRC tonight at 8:30, when the choir will broadcast the fourth in the series of programs of sacred music sponsored by the Griffith-Consumers Co.

The choir of 50 voices, with Robert M. Ruckman at the organ, will be directed by W. E. Braithwaite.

A series of dramatizations based on the history of the Lone Star Republic before it became the State of Texas will be introduced in the Bar X Days and Nights program over WJSV at 7:15 p. m. This is a new time for this program, which formerly was heard on Friday evenings.

Phil Cook has added another voice to his one-man army. Phil and Mrs. Cook are the parents of a girl. The baby weighed five pounds seven ounces at birth.

Carveth Wells, explorer, reports the following as the latest big game hunting yarn out of East Africa.

A bold and fearless hunter one day left the highway and plunged off into the bush. After a laborious and stealthy stalk he suddenly saw before him over the tall grass a fine pair of curved horns. He took careful aim on a spot just below the horns and lossed a broadside from his blunderbuss.

Stealthily he wormed his way through the grass to his prey—and then he discovered that he had shot his own motorcycle clean through the gas tank.

Huston Thompson, former Federal trade commissioner and said to be responsible for the bill now pending before Congress regulating the sale of securities, will speak over WJSV at 7:45 p. m.

The new legislation is in line with President Roosevelt's idea to make "the seller beware." Under the law, full publicity must be given to stock and bond sales.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

New York—A battalion of fire wagons sped up to a Madison avenue apartment house where smoke was pouring out of one of the higher windows. But when the firemen quickly mounted to the spot the smoke had disappeared and there wasn't a sign of a fire.

Exceedingly puzzled, they came back to the sidewalk, took another look upward and then went back in again to investigate. Still no more signs of smoke or fire.

They sat around waiting for a minute until a big burly cop walked up and advised: "You boys go on back to the station house. When the flames get big enough again for you to see, I'll call and wake you up."

John Selby's duties as book reviewer require that he read dozens of new volumes every week. In fact, practically all his waking hours are spent with a book in his hands.

So one may appreciate that the world's most optimistic fellow was the college boy who walked in and tried to interest Selby in subscribing to a circulating library.

The enthusiastic manner in which the administration is favoring writers and editors for diplomatic posts might be considered good evidence that men who manipulate the written word make good ambassadors.

This country had an author-ambassador when Richard Washburn Child was assigned to Italy. Paul Morand has long been one of France's favorite envoys as well as one of its most popular authors. Harold Nicolson's career as a British diplomat has been as brilliant as his record as a novelist.

Jack Pearl never talks in dialect off stage. He is extraordinarily superstitious.

Austrian Fascists Stage Celebration

Vienna, May 14 (A.P.).—Forty thousand Fascist heimwehr from all parts of Austria gathered today in historic Schoenbrunn Park to celebrate the 250th anniversary of Vienna's salvation from the Turks and to demonstrate their solidarity with the government of Chancellor Dollfuss.

(The Dollfuss government and the heimwehr are hostile to the Austrian Nazi party.)

The chancellor, for the first time since he put the Austrian Parliament on the shelf, appeared in his military uniform as a captain of the imperial fusiliers.

Culbertson on Bridge

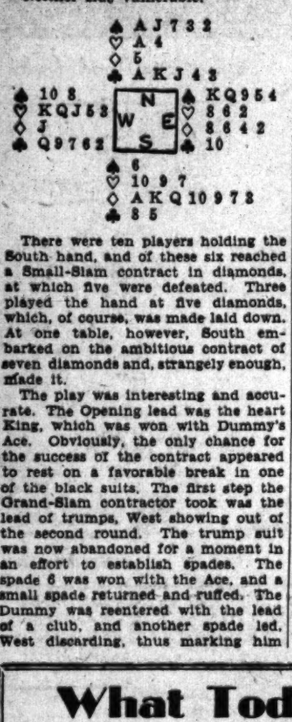
A SQUEEZE FOR A SLAM.

DUPLICATE BRIDGE affords a splendid opportunity for the comparison of varying methods of play, and the merits, incidentally, of various methods of bidding. While Duplicate, as played today, is in some respects an artificial game, it has the value of being the one game in which the play of the same hand by various persons can be compared.

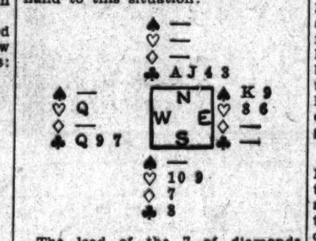
In a recent Duplicate game, played in New York City, the hand below furnished many contrasts in results:

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



There were ten players holding the South hand, and of these six reached a Small-Slam contract in diamonds, at which five were defeated. Three played the hand at five diamonds, which, of course, was made laid down. At one table, however, South embarked on the ambitious contract of seven diamonds and, strangely enough, made it.

The play was interesting and accurate. The Opening lead was the heart King, which was won with Dummy's Ace. Obviously, the only chance for the success of the contract appeared to rest on a favorable break in one of the black suits. The first step the Grand-Slam contractor took was the lead of trumps, West showing out of the second round. The trump suit was now abandoned for a moment in an effort to establish spades. The spade 6 was won with the Ace, and a small spade returned and ruffed. The Dummy was reentered with the lead of a club, and another spade led, West discarding, thus marking him with ten cards originally in hearts and clubs. His lead marked him with the Queen, at least, of hearts, with the strong probability of the Knave also. East, on the single club lead, had dropped the Ten, marking it as a possible singleton, and if this were so, West must hold five clubs. The Declarer had developed the hand so accurately that he now was able to force discards by leading the balance of his trumps, reducing the hand to this situation:

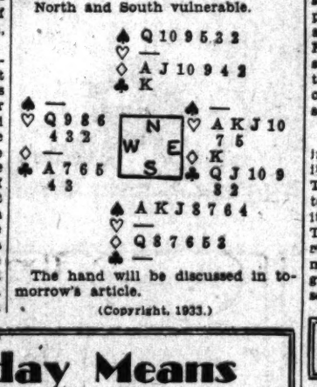


The lead of the 7 of diamonds proved fatal to West. Obviously, the discard of the heart Queen establishes two hearts for the Declarer, and a club discard enables him to win the last 3 tricks by means of a simple club finesse, which is clearly marked.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

How should the hands below be bid?

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

IF May 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 5:50 a. m. to 7:15 a. m., from 9:25 a. m. to 10:45 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. The danger periods are from 1 p. m. to 2:20 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m.

It is quite possible that you will suffer a loss of some kind on this day. Perhaps it will be of a financial nature, yet, again, it may be the loss of some personal article you prize highly.

The child born on this May 15 will be inclined to "talk out of turn." This little one will be found to be essentially honest, but, like other children, there will be times when he will seek to "put something over."

If May 15 is the date of your birth, you are a person who is seldom grouchy. At times you let people and situations get on your nerves, but your attitude on these occasions is not to complain and "crab," but rather to get off by yourself until the incident blows over. You are probably pretty much of a person about your home town; you like to be seen and heard, but you are not offensive in this regard. People like you in spite of your "rough corners," for you are a thoroughly refreshing individual to know socially.

Born on May 15, you would seem to have the ability to make considerable sums of money and the will to do just that. You do not let custom or tradition stand in the way of accomplishment.

Successful people born on May 15:

Isaac R. Trimble, Confederate soldier.

Thomas L. Crittenden, soldier.

Clarence E. Dutton, soldier and geologist.

William A. Hamphill, journalist.

Williamina P. M. Fleming, astronomer.

Edwin A. Alderman, educator.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Simple and lovely is today's model of dark blue crinkly crepe silk for the business woman or for general day wear.

It has its modish collar of white pique. And as you already know, Paris is using pique trim on her smartest frocks.

Some, however, may prefer white organdie, and it will look equally attractive.

Printed crepe silks and sheer woolens are also very practical and smart to fashion it.

Style No. 2565 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust.

Size 16 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material with ¼ yard of 39-inch contrasting. Price of pattern 15 cents.

Our new Fashion Magazine for spring contains all of the new spring styles for women, misses and children as well as interesting illustrated articles—Beauty Hints, Hairdressing, How to Reduce Sensibly, Poise as an Aid to Fashions, Dressmaking Hints, &c.

Just write "Fashion Magazine" on any piece of paper, inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin and mail your order to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

The Meanderer

Learns of Lectures on Cosmetics; New Shirts for Men That Need No Ironing.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

The right way and the wrong way to apply cosmetics are to be considered in lectures in a department store today by a representative of an important cosmetics manufacturing house. The lectures—with demonstrations—will take place in the store at 11:30 o'clock, 2:30 o'clock and 4:45 o'clock every day for two weeks, beginning today.

The pros and cons of the subject of brilliantly colored nail polish will be dealt with in the lectures mentioned above.

Brown net is highly regarded by fashionable designers and fashionable women in New York, according to Miss Ethelyne Holt, the "Camel-ad" girl, who visited a department store in Washington and gave an interview to The Washington Post on Sunday. Miss Holt is having an evening dress of brown net made, the Meanderer learned, to be worn with a throat-line decoration of yellow flowers and a low-cut back. A yellow taffeta coat with big sleeves is being made as a wrap for the brown net gown. The brown net and yellow taffeta complement the brown eyes and gold hair of the "cigarette girl."

"I don't like anything fussy," Miss Holt told the Meanderer. "All my things have plain lines. The ruffles and swishes of many of the dresses today do not suit me at all. In my college days in Boston I did go in for the 'sweet' type of party dresses—but I never do now."

Dotted Swiss is being chosen for gowns by smart women, Miss Holt said. "And the Swisses are not babyish," she said. "They often are in dark colors and interesting colors combinations."

The black linen dress for day time, and the accompanying white linen swagger coat, in which Miss Holt posed for The Washington Post, sell as a summer suit for only $7.95 in an F street department store. Her white swagger hat, worn with the suit, is tagged only $3.50. Her gloves, pique on one side, net on the other, are sold in the store for $1.

Old-fashioned seersucker is now being made into shirts for men, while it is so popular for women's wear. The advantage of this crepe-like material over any other shirting is that it requires no starching or ironing. The Meanderer saw the new seersucker shirts for men in a department store, in shades of green, blue, gray and tan, and in white. They sell for $1.55 each or three for $4.50.

JOE RAGGIO, 800-pound stay-at-home, has a very good reason for staying at home. He can not get through the door because he is so fat. He also has a very good reason for being fat. He eats a lot. One day not long ago his menu included: 12 pounds of spaghetti, 7 pounds of hot dogs, a gallon of coffee, 3 quarts of ice cream, 70 hardboiled eggs and 2 quarts of water.

Eight yards of cloth are required to make a pair of trousers for Raggio and he measures 8 and 2-3 feet around the waist.

Milk is man's perfect food. He can live indefinitely on it. Yet milk is also a poison, as may be almost anything if improperly administered. Milk, for example, is poisonous if injected into the blood stream or muscles. On the other hand, deadly snake venom may be taken through the mouth harmlessly if it does not get into the blood stream.

Water, it is pointed out by an authority on poisons, is also a poison when taken through the mouth if it is too hot.

HONOR TO MOTHERS IS PAID BY CAPITAL WITH VARIED RITES

Secretary Dern Is Speaker Before Great Throng at Arlington.

Mothers were paid honor yesterday by sons and daughters in impressive services throughout the Capital and the Nation.

In church and home, in the great outdoors and in lonely room, her name was eulogized in prayer and song, in oratory and silent tribute.

Within the lofty marble of the amphitheater of Arlington National Cemetery, looking across the green slopes dotted with the white tombstones of sons who have made the greatest sacrifice for God and country, the American War Mothers conducted their ninth annual Mother's Day services.

Here, standing before the great throng that filled the amphitheater, within the shadow of the grave of the Unknown Soldier, Secretary of War George H. Dern paid a glowing tribute to all mothers—dead and living.

Comfort for Bereaved

To those sons and daughters whose mothers have passed on, Secretary Dern offered this consolation: "She is with you in spirit and the homage you pay today will come to her as the dew on a thirsty flower."

He told those mothers whose sons are roaming the country seeking a livelihood that the Government has their interests at heart, pointing to the armies of unemployed now being mobilized for reforestation work.

"Your sons will be returned to you," he said, "with a broader outlook on life, happier and healthier men."

Secretary Dern paid a special tribute to the officers of the Akron who are buried in Arlington; and remembering the other officers and members of the crew whose bodies were not recovered, he quoted the memorable words of Kipling:

"If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
Mother o' mine, oh, mother o' mine,
I know whose love would come down to me,
Mother o' mine, oh, mother o' mine."

An equally impressive tribute to mothers was given by Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey. Greetings from the American War Mothers were bestowed by Mrs. Virgil H. Stone, national president, of Lander, Wyo.

Appropriate music was played by the United States Army Band. Solos were by Miss Dorothy Reddish, Mrs. Gertrude Lyons, Neal Parrish and Harry W. Phillips, cornetist.

The invocation was by Capt. Sidney Key Evans, chief of chaplains, United States Navy, and the benediction by Col. Julian Yates, chief chaplain, United States Army. Announcements were made by Col. Richard T. Ellis.

Dedication of Home.

The American War Mothers held another ceremony last night in the dedication of their national home and headquarters, 1527 New Hampshire avenue northwest. A program of speeches and music and a reception marked the occasion.

Speaking at the annual Mother's Day breakfast for dormitory residents of the Y. M. C. A., Senator Hattie Carraway, of Arkansas, declared that the mothers of America are playing an important part in bringing the country out of the depression. Herself a mother of three boys, Senator Caraway paid tribute to mothers generally for their efforts to sustain the morale of their husbands and sons in the present crisis.

Senator Caraway was introduced by Maj. H. K. Stacey, U. S. A. George McSwain, president of the Y. M. C. A. dormitory council, presided. The address was broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co.

The annual Mother's Day service in the Church of the Immaculate Conception was featured by a colorful May procession in which 65 young women of the Immaculate Conception High School for Girls took part. An address appropriate to Mother's Day was delivered by the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor.

Sorority Hears Gans.

The Phi Delta Sorority heard a Mother's Day address by Isaac Gans in the Chinese room of the Mayflower Hotel yesterday afternoon.

The Visayan Circle, Inc., leading Filipino organization in Washington, conducted a program last night at its clubhouse, 1817 K street northwest. Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, director of women's personnel guidance at George Washington University, was the principal speaker.

The Girls Club at Friendship House acted as host to mothers yesterday afternoon. The Mothers Club will entertain with a social Wednesday evening.

Members of the Ohev Sholom Synagogue held a celebration yesterday afternoon, when recitations and music were rendered by members of the Social Club and the Sisterhood of the Synagogue.

Churches throughout the city observed the day with appropriate prayers, hymns and sermons.

Meeting of 200 Hits Return of Beer as Letting-Down of Enforcement.

Representatives of nearly all the dry organizations in the District banded together yesterday at a meeting at the National City Christian Church for an intensive drive against liquor traffic in Washington.

Representatives of each organization will group themselves under a general committee "for a definite cooperative effort" to make the organization permanent and effective against the "laxity of the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment."

Lead by Dr. W. L. Darby, secretary of Washington Federation of Churches, the 200 persons scored the return of beer to the District as bringing a general let-down in the enforcement of prohibition laws.

Introduced by John B. Hammond, member of the Rachebites, a resolution calling for the enforcement of the Sheppard law was unanimously adopted.

The Sheppard law, passed in 1917, prohibits the manufacture and the importation and sale of intoxicating liquors in the District.

It was agreed that the law has never been allowed to function under persons sympathetic to the eighteenth amendment and that the statute was "nullified, ignored and betrayed by the authorities sworn and paid to enforce it."

A resolution insisting on reenactment of the measure and that it be "placed in the hands of its friends for enforcement" was unanimously adopted.

WELL-DRESSED MAN FOUND DEAD IN RIVER

Unidentified Body Is Taken From the Potomac Near Bellevue Magazine.

Police last night were endeavoring to establish the identity of a well-dressed white man about 50 years old, whose body was found floating in the Potomac River near the Bellevue Magazine yesterday afternoon.

The only object found in his clothing was a miniature of Christ.

The body, which was found by an unidentified person, was removed to the Morgue.

Dr. C. J. Murphy, deputy coroner, examined the body shortly afterward and said it had not been in the water more than two or three hours. He said that the man undoubtedly had drowned, but whether it was accidental or suicidal remains to be determined.

The man, who is about 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs about 130 pounds, was dressed in a brown suit, white sport sweater, white shirt with black polkadot tie, gray sport stockings and tan oxfords. There were no teeth in his mouth and his head was bald.

Later Policeman R. E. Turner arrested Steve Radley, 42, of Los Angeles, Calif. He was held last night for investigation in connection with the stabbing. Baken was admitted to Casualty Hospital.

INDEPENDENT PRICE RANGE ON GROCERIES 7.3 PER CENT HIGHER

Federal Trade Board Survey Points Out Credit and Delivery Services.

The prices of local independent grocers are 7.3 per cent higher than those of chain store merchants, it was indicated in a report by the Federal Trade Commission made public yesterday, but the independent dealers pay 3.1% per cent more than the chains for their supplies.

The report also points out that, "It should be borne in mind in considering these comparisons of chain and independent results that the independent grocery establishments render services, such as credit and delivery, to retail customers to a greater extent than the chain grocery establishments."

The report will be sent to the Senate today, and is the first in a series on studies of groceries and drug stores in five cities. The studies were made in response to a Senate resolution, which also asked for a report on the tobacco business. The results of the latter, it was said by the commission, would probably not be published because of insufficient appropriations.

570 Stores and 3 Chains.

Entitled "Prices and Margins of Chain and Independent Distributors-Washington-Grocery," the report is based on a survey made by the commission examiners of grocery stores in this city.

Retail selling prices were obtained from 570 independent and cooperative groceries and from three chain store systems. Costs and weighing data were also procured from the three chains, from a cooperative chain and from five wholesale dealers and 35 manufacturers and distributors.

In this city it was found that the chain stores charged the consumer $54.08 for 274 grocery items for which the independent stores asked $58.03. The independents, therefore, were $3.95 higher than the chains, or 7.3 per cent. For these same items (after deduction of all special discounts and allowances for quantity purchases, advertising or any other purpose) the manufacturer was paid $41.51 by the chains and $42.80 by the wholesalers or the independent retailers, where the items were bought directly. The independent distributor, therefore, paid the manufacturer $1.29, or 3.13 per cent, more than the chain did.

Between the amount paid to the manufacturer for the merchandise and its selling price to Washington consumers there was a spread of $12.57 in the case of the chain and $15.23 in the case of the independent distributor.

Special Discount Effect.

Weighing the prices by the quantities of goods purchased from the manufacturer gives a somewhat less favorable result for the chains, independent selling prices to consumers averaging only 6.4 per cent higher than those of the chains on the 274 items and the buying prices from the manufacturer only 1.72 per cent higher (after special discounts have been made).

The amount of the difference in cost attributable to special discounting and allowances on these 274 items in the Washington study was $0.60 for the chains and $0.14 for the independents, the total cost of the chains after discounts and allowances being $41.51, and of the independents, $42.80.

Retail selling prices for three grocery and meat chains separately were available for 136 items. The total retail price of the 136 items for the largest of these chains was $27.98. The intermediate size chain sold them for $27.69 while the smallest of the three chains sold them for a total of $27.99.

Excluding the two cooperative chains the independent stores showed an aggregate selling price of $29.63, while, when the cooperatives were included, this total was $29.49. The total prices of the 136 items for the cooperatives amount to $28.90 for the larger of the two cooperatives and $29.57 for the smaller.

The gross margin, after special discounts, of the largest chain, was 21.73 per cent of sales, that of the intermediate sized company, 21.28 per cent, and that of the smallest chain, 21.77 per cent, which was the highest gross margin of the three.

'Ginger Jake' Victims Seek Congress' Help

Delegation Wants to Find Men Who Paralyzed 30,000 Persons.

A delegation which does not want money from the Government—something novel in the way of Washington delegations—is quietly camped on the Bladensburg road while its members are working on behalf of the sufferers from Jamaica ginger paralysis.

Living in an automobile trailer, which one of its members built, the delegation is trying to persuade the Government to learn the origin of the adulterated ginger which paralyzed 30,000 persons in 1930. Pensions for these sufferers are not sought, it was emphasized by H. M. Spillers, of Wichita, Kans.

First reports of the paralysis were made by habitual drunkards who had used the ginger as an illegal beverage. For this reason the public believes that all sufferers were in this class. The public does not consider the number of persons who were affected after using the ginger compound really as a medicine, Mr. Spillers pointed out.

One of these is an 8-year-old girl in Wichita, who was paralyzed after taking the adulterated ginger as a medicine for a kidney ailment. Another is a druggist whose wife and son, as well as himself, were paralyzed after taking the ginger to cure intestinal influenza. For the benefit of these as well as other sufferers, the delegation is seeking to learn the ultimate origin of the ginger, in the hope that they may be able to sue the manufacturer.

The poisoning was due to the introduction of tricresyl phosphate into the compound, which is supposed to consist only of ginger and alcohol. The concern which shipped the Jamaica ginger into Kansas was indicted by a grand jury, but extradition was refused by Federal Judge James A. Lowell, who has since been impeached in the House for his conduct of another case.

The delegation is composed of Mr. Spillers, Carl Grimes, W. J. Herndon and H. H. Kincheloe. It represents the National Committee of the United Victims of Ginger Paralysis Association, composed of the 30,000 sufferers in 24 States. The nickels and dimes contributed by these victims have provided funds for Mr. Spillers and his associates in their attempt to stir Congress into action.

The delegation is also making a senatorial investigation of the food and drug administration, claiming that this Federal agency did not take proper precautions against the shipment of the ginger, which is known throughout the West and South as "Jake." Immediately after the paralysis was reported in 1930 the Government began to prosecute the druggists who sold it for violation of the prohibition laws. Many of these were convicted, and since then all sufferers have met the retort that they bought the ginger for beverage purposes, Mr. Spillers said.

He has gotten "nice cooperation" from the Congress members representing the territories where the sufferers are located and is hopeful that he will get action at this session, Mr. Spillers added. There are two chapters of the association, one in Ohio and the other with headquarters in Wichita.

Three of the delegation are living in the 16-foot trailer parked on a lot on Bladensburg road, near Randolph place. The other sleps in his car. The trailer, a comfortable and roomy affair, is equipped with a sink, running water, a shower-bath and a built-in stove. By living in this way, they are enabled to save the money of those who sent them to Washington, Mr. Spillers pointed out.

The delegation charges that the amount of ginger in the compound, which is a recognized medicine, was deliberately reduced by the manufacturers to make it more palatable as a beverage. The adulterant was then added to bring up the amount of solids in it. "And we want to know—we want the Government to find out—who put this poison into a medicine. That's all we want from the Government," they conclude.

WOMANHOOD CALLED CHIEF GLORY OF U.S.

Dr. Godfrey Chobot Points to Cases of Supreme Inspiration.

"The glory of America is her womanhood, that womanhood which has been and always will be loyal to our country, that womanhood which is filled with patriotism, works of charity, love and great service, that womanhood leading and inspiring to works of benevolence and mercy," Dr. Godfrey Chobot, pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, said in a sermon yesterday.

Dr. Chobot pointed out that all through history great deeds and accomplishments have been motivated by the influence and inspiration of women.

"Woman's supreme power," he said, "is in inspiring others. A good woman will inspire men with heroism, patriotism, courage and purpose; men will do anything for a good woman.

"A woman loving is a woman at her best. Woman is present in many lights, but her greatest influence is shown to be that of the mother in the home. Through the home she influences the community and the nation. The immortal Lincoln once said, 'All that I am, all that I hope to be I owe to my mother.'

"It is true, that the child becomes so influenced with the teachings of early life that he never can cast them off. He can become indifferent for a time but memory links him with his childhood days. There is no finer word in the vocabulary than the word 'Mother,' and no subject on which a man is more fitted to speak.

"Our country needs the inspiration that comes from true womanhood. God bless the homes of America and God bless our mothers, to them belongs all honor on this day."

As a special feature of the Mother's Day service, Paul Gotwals sang "Mother o' Mine."

VENDING ON SUNDAY RESULTS IN ARREST OF SCORE FOR TEST

Peddling Will Be Stopped if Police Court Sustains Recent Regulations.

Nearly a score of street venders were arrested by Washington police yesterday in an attempt to stop street vending on Sunday. The men arrested will be tried today, and if Police Court upholds the arrests, Sunday vending will be stopped entirely.

Most of the men arrested yesterday were ice cream venders. One man, who was arrested in the Sixth Precinct for selling ice cream from a truck, returned to his selling after putting up collateral for the first charge and was arrested a second time.

The regulation prohibiting Sunday street vending was enacted on February 10 of this year, but until recently it has not been enforced. Numerous complaints from motorists lately are responsible for the present drive against Sabbath venders, police said.
